Pantages Guilty of Assaulting Girl Dancer

VERDICT CARRIES
1-YEAR SENTENCE
IN COUNTY JAIL

Jury Recommends Theater Magnate Be Given Shortest Term Under California Law.

JURY DELIVERS
WRITTEN VERDICT Trial Lasted Nearly Month and Created Nation-Wide Interest in Sensational Phases.

Los Angeles, October 27.—(AP)—Alexander Pantages, wealthy theater owner, was convicted on a charge of assault on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, by a superior court jury to-night. The jury recommended that Pantages be sentenced to the county jail for not more than one year. The ultimate limit would have been 50 years in state's prison.

The jury which took the case late Friday afternoon, was composed of seven women and five men.

The trial lasted nearly a month. Frank E. Franz, foreman of the jury, delivered the written verdict to a bailiff, who in turn presented it to Superior Judge Charles Frisbie for inspection before it was read.

Shortly before noon today the jury had asked that the testimony of Miss Pringle and all expert medical testimony be read to it. At that time it was said that the jury stood 9 to 3 for conviction.

The sentence will be pronounced Friday, November 1, at 8 o'clock. The jury was out in the Pantages case for 53 hours.

When the dinner recess was taken at 5 p. m. an hour of testimony remained to be read during the night session.

It was understood that the vote stood 9 to 3 for conviction. The jurors appeared tired when they filed in, but disinterested spectators believed that three of them listened very closely to the transcript as it was read by the court.

Vote 11 to 1.
District Attorney Byron Fitts said, however, that he had understood Pringle to say "yes," and believed the vote was 11 to 1.

Judge Frisbie began his reading with the testimony of Miss Pringle, which was the record of her two days on the stand. The expert testimony of Drs. W. R. Dakin, Hannah Beatty, Roy W. Hamman and Peter P. Sundin came next. During the reading of Miss Pringle's testimony a noon recess was taken.

The request for the specific testimony led attorneys to believe that the jurors wish to compare the girl's story with the opinions of the doctors. Physicians who examined the girl for the prosecution were not put on the stand by the district attorney, they were called by the defense. They testified that they found no indication that there had been an attack on the day charged.

Pantages' Restless.
Pantages, multi-millionaire theater man, was brought to the courtroom from his home under guard. He was pale and restless as he sat at the counsel table.

He was accompanied by his sons, Rodney and Lloyd; his daughter, Carmen, and his foster-daughter, Mrs. Dixie Martin. His wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, is confined to her bed with a nervous breakdown as a result of her manslaughter conviction in the automobile crash death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese.

Pantages' eyes strayed toward the jury box for hasty glance, and returned there several times, but for the most part his gaze roved about the ceiling and out of a near-by window.

He showed no reaction to Pringle's remark showing the trend of the jury's deliberation. Apparently he was not aware of its import.

Community Chest Opens 'Clean-Up' Campaign Today

INTER-CITY BUS CO.
TO FIGHT DECISION
$200,000 More Needed To Fill Quota of $480,000
Asked for 39 Agencies of Service.

The third phase, the clean-up campaign of the Atlanta Community Chest's seventh annual drive, will get under way today, when workers for the movement go forth to raise the remaining $200,000 needed to bring the total amount of pledges up to $480,000 and put the drive over for its 1930 quota.

Today's activities of the Community Chest workers will be featured by a report meeting this afternoon. A second meeting of the week is scheduled for Wednesday. At these sessions reports will be given of the work accomplished to date and leaders will discuss the plans in view for the clean-up phase of the drive. Much is expected to be accomplished this week by the division groups in obtaining reports from commercial organizations which have been asked to give from one-half to one per cent of their annual pay roll to the Chest.

Another event in the campaign marking today's efforts will be the radio appeal over station WSB at 7:30 o'clock, under auspices of the Cable Music Box. Radio fans donated $800 to the Chest funds as a result of the Friday night broadcast and this feature of the campaign is looked upon as an excellent source of revenue.

The company has decided to file a petition in the superior court this same time today, requesting that the company be permitted to operate buses over one of two routes from Atlanta to Decatur, either by way of Ponce de Leon avenue and North Decatur road, by Emory to Decatur or via the East Lake Heights section.

A statement attributed to Mr. Steinmetz in Sunday newspapers, quoting the bus line president as saying: "We have the equipment. We have made a start at the service. And we intend to get a certificate for a route between the two places, one way or another," was refuted by the Inter-City executive.

"We have been hopeful that the commission would pass on the application for one of the routes," Mr. Steinmetz said Sunday night.

Indicating that the Inter-City Company would soon undertake general expansion of its services, extending into the interstate field was contained in the statement made Sunday night. "The company has decided to go into the long-run bus business and will operate several coach lines radiating from Atlanta," he said.

Details have not been completed, but it is expected that the new service will extend into the territory south and southwest of Atlanta, he said. Another expansion planned would provide for establishing a bus route from Atlanta to Haverhill and College Park.

In the decision handed down by the public service commission, the portion of the coach company's application for a certificate to operate a route starting in Druid Hills, circling that section and touching Emory, Decatur and Avondale was granted.

This decision in lieu of its full application. Subsequently the Georgia Power Company notified the commission that it had reversed its decision in respect to a route through Druid Hills from the end of the Ponce de Leon car line, and would ask permission to operate such line apparently in direct competition with the Inter-City Coach Company.

"PERFECT CRIME"
SEEN IN FINDING OF GIRL'S BODY

Atlantic City, N. J., October 27.—(United News.)—Police tonight classed as a "perfect crime" the murder of an unknown young woman, whose nude body—the face burned beyond recognition by corrosive acid—was found on a farm near here Friday.

Two silver fillings in the girl's teeth form the only clue to her identity. The girl's murderer stunned her with a blow on the head, then fired four bullets into her body and finally burned her face with the acid.

State police assigned to the case said tonight they could make no progress.

BRIAND ACCEPTS POST IN FRENCH RADICAL CABINET

Acceptance of Former Premier Throws an Entirely Different Light on Political Situation.

Paris, October 27.—(AP)—Edouard Daladier, announced tonight that Aristide Briand, 11 times premier of France, had accepted the post of minister of foreign affairs in the government Daladier is organizing.

Daladier cited M. Briand as saying: "I accept collaboration in the government union with so much the more pleasure because I tried myself to constitute a government of the left without success."

Politicians said Briand's acceptance threw an entirely different light on the political situation. The success of Daladier is regarded tonight as very likely even by his bitterest opponents. Politicians considered participation of the socialist in the Daladier government a foregone conclusion.

Daladier first announced Briand's acceptance to a conference of members of the radical party in the chamber today. No corroboration was available from Briand tonight. Daladier's supporters expected that Briand's acceptance would bring from 50 to 60 votes from the moderate groups in parliament. Those votes added to 124 radicals and 101 socialists would give Daladier a workable, if slim, majority.

The national council of the socialist party which meets tomorrow is expected to confirm permission for the socialist deputies to enter the Daladier cabinet. Daladier, it was believed, probably would be ready to announce his cabinet late Tuesday or early Wednesday. He probably will appear before the chamber Thursday.

Former Premier Caillaux played an important part in the radical deliberations today. Political circles to-night entertained a growing belief that he may be called to fill an important position in the Daladier cabinet. Many hitches are expected, however, between the socialists and radicals when the portfolios are distributed.

Daladier's success in persuading Briand to retain the foreign affairs cabinet is considered a master stroke in radical quarters. It was received with corresponding gloom by the moderate and conservative groups.

DALADIER SON OF VILLAGE BAKER.

Paris, October 27.—(AP)—Edouard Daladier, little radical school teacher, who from a rather modest political situation among the groups of the left, has suddenly flashed like a meteor across the international political horizon, is the son of a village baker.

Left an orphan at an early age he was educated at the state's expense. He proved a brilliant scholar. Entering normal school where Edouard Herriot, former premier, was one of his teachers he qualified as teacher himself and taught in a small town before the war.

Daladier has an excellent war record. He was decorated and cited several times. As a soldier he was "adopted" by Mlle. Lafontaine, daughter of Dr. Laffont, noted scientist. As a war godmother she met Daladier while the latter was on leave. Daladier entered politics through the influence of Herriot, whom he replaces as head of the radical party. He is not a wealthy man.

IMPATIENT SMOKER
POURS KEROSENE
IN PIPE—DIES

Pittsburgh, Pa., October 27.—(United News.)—When the tobacco John R. Gub's cornob pipe failed to burn, he impatiently poured kerosene into the bowl and struck another match.

The explosion which followed set fire to Gub's clothing and to the barn in which he was working. The barn was destroyed and Gub, 50, died of burns today.

"UNLOADED" GUN
FATAL TO GIRL
SHOT AT PARTY

Buffalo, N. Y., October 27.—(AP)—Ruth Shanley, 17, was shot and killed today at a Halloween party. Police are holding Louis J. Spitzmiller, 24, who said the shooting was accidental. He was exhibiting his revolver to the merry-makers and didn't know it was loaded, he said.

Florida Governor Called to Stand In Trial of Catts

HENRY COLES DIES
AT NEW ORLEANS
Carlton To Be Court Witness Upon Request of Judge; Final Arguments
To Follow.

Tampa, Fla., October 27.—(AP)—Governor Doyle E. Carlton will testify tomorrow in the trial of former Governor Sidney J. Catts on counterfeiting charges, it was learned to-night. The testimony is expected to be the last offered in the case and will precede final arguments by attorneys in the trial of the former governor, accused of financing a counterfeiting ring.

The chief executive of Florida was called by Federal Judge Akerman as a court witness. Neither the governor nor the judge would make statements.

The fact that Governor Carlton has been called to testify was accepted as one of the reasons why Judge Akerman unexpectedly ordered a recess of the case until Monday morning. Announcement of the recess after the defense rested its case yesterday afternoon altered the plans of attorneys for the government and Catts, who had expected to present their final arguments and give the case to the jury last night. Possibility of a hurried verdict by a jury anxious to get home Saturday night was given by Judge Akerman yesterday as his reason for ordering the recess.

Carlton in Tampa.
Governor Carlton arrived here early today from Wauchula, where he was spending the week-end when he was called by Judge Akerman.

He declined to comment upon the situation, but it was understood that the summons was given as a courtesy, to permit him to state his version of the story told by Catts and other witnesses in regard to an alleged proffered "trade" of 1,500 Ybor City votes during the general election campaign in 1922 for appointment of two justices of the peace in Hillsborough county.

Julian Diaz, former Tampa attorney and now serving a federal prison term on a counterfeiting conviction, had sought through Catts to have two friends appointed to the posts, according to his story and that told by Catts.

On the witness stand Saturday afternoon, Catts sought to clear up the impression he had given earlier in the trial that Governor Carlton was aware of plans by which the defendant and Diaz hoped to gain an estimated $1,500 through appointment of two "Diaz" friends to the political offices.

Tells of "Trade."
In his explanatory testimony, Catts told how Diaz had approached him during the general election campaign and had promised to deliver 1,500 Ybor City and West Tampa votes to Carlton and President Hoover. In return, Catts said, Diaz asked that Catts lend him $5,000 to clear up personal debts and to finance preparation of cases to oust the incumbent judges. The latter's offices were being contested.

Catts at first said that he had told Governor Carlton at Tallahassee about Diaz's desires, and that the governor was aware that Catts and Diaz expected to profit from the appointment of the chief executive was alleged to have promised to make the appointments, in return for campaign funds that Catts had done for him after the war-time governor was defeated in the primary.

Later, the defendant explained from the witness stand that Carlton had promised to appoint the magistrates and that he had promised to make the appointments, in return for campaign funds that Catts had done for him after the war-time governor was defeated in the primary.

Dr. Knott, while not a trusty, obtained permission of the warden to go to the fair, it was reported. He has one other escape on his record, having slipped away from the Weems prison several years ago. He was later captured in Greenville.

He was convicted in Elmore county in the spring of 1919 of the murder of a Mr. Gates and was sentenced to death. His sentence was commuted by former Governor Kilby to life imprisonment.

FORMER OFFICER
SLAIN IN GEORGIA
LIQUOR AFFRAY

Eastman, Ga., October 27.—(AP)—J. Lancaster, former policeman, is dead and Dewitt Gaillard is under arrest charged with murder, the result of a shooting affray at Rhine, Ga., about 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Gaillard claims that he shot in self-defense, after Lancaster, he said, attempted to stab him. The quarrel is said to have involved liquor transactions.

The scene of the shooting was within a few feet of where Lancaster was shot and wounded several years ago, for which shooting Ben Smith served a sentence of 12 months in the county jail.

GRADY FACILITIES HIT BY DR. DAVISON, BOND ISSUE URGED

Member of Institution's Staff Declares Equipment Is Inadequate To Meet Demands of Public

Declaring that facilities for treatment of patients at Grady hospital are totally inadequate to meet the demands of the public and that the public of Atlanta is "at last aroused concerning a bond issue," Dr. T. C. Davison, former chief of staff of the institution and at present a member of the staff, Sunday night issued a statement in which he stated that specialists who are serving there are discouraged over inability to perform their work in an efficient and effective manner.

Dr. Davison's statement came on the eve of a special meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon of the finance committee of city council to consider a bond issue of $2,000,000 for reconstruction of Grady and Battle Hill sanitariums.

He declared that present facilities for the institution are far from adequate to cope with the situation, and called upon members of the finance committee and the people of Atlanta to vote to provide for Grady, not only for the present but for the next ten years to come.

Exclusive Issue Sought.
Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward and chairman of the hospitals and charities committee of council, has announced that he will appeal to members of council not to add other items to the Grady and Battle Hill issues, but to permit voters of Atlanta to decide whether or not conditions at the institutions warrant their support in a bond issue.

Council members offered amendments totaling about $2,500,000 for other projects when the papers were offered to council several weeks ago. It is thought probable that council will side with their own preferences "in an effort to provide for caring for those unfortunate of Atlanta who must depend upon the two hospitals and their treatment when they are ill." It was predicted that the finance committee would recommend the hospital bonds only, and that the findings of the committee will go to council at its regular semi-monthly meeting, November 4, without any others attached to it.

Text of Statement.
Text of Dr. Davison's statement follows: "Public opinion is at last becoming aroused over the deplorable conditions at Grady hospital. Buildings and equipment are old, out of date and inadequate to cope with our rapidly increasing population. It is a charity hospital and for those who are unable to pay their way in other institutions, and with its present facilities it can only receive about half the poor sick who deserve admission there being a long waiting list at all times.

The present main building occupied by the white unit was opened in June, 1912, several of the present buildings being much more ancient. At that time the capacity of the building in all departments was approximately 200 beds, and there has been no expansion in this unit in the past 17 years, although the population has practically doubled during that period.

"The hospital is so congested that proper segregation is impossible. Medical wards are inadequate and no provision is possible for separation of acute chronic diseases. Tubercular patients, with other diseases, are necessarily treated in the same wards with other patients, and this is unfair and not proper protection to the latter group.

Surgical Wards Inadequate.
"Surgical wards are not only inadequate but contain a general mixture of all the various specialties—general surgery, rectal diseases, genito-urinary, orthopedic, neurological and eye, ear, nose and throat cases. Each specialty should have separate wards for treatment of their patients in order to

OFFICIALS FORCED TO OPEN CASH BOX AT POINT OF GUN

Bold Robbery Takes Place in Office of Pedigree Dairies, Inc., at 165
Haynes Street.

VICTIMS DESCRIBE
WHITE MARAUDERS

Office Manager and Visiting Executive at Work on Books When Pair of Bandits Enter Building.

In a daylight holdup and robbery at the Pedigree Dairies, Inc., 165 Haynes street, occurring shortly after 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, two unmasked white bandits made away with approximately $5,000 in cash taken from the company's safe after surprising executives of the dairy company in the office and forcing them to aid in opening a locked money box at the point of a pistol.

According to the story reported to police authorities investigating the bold robbery, Richard C. Brown, of 1008 Columbus avenue, office manager for the Pedigree company, and Clement F. Trainer, who is stopping at the Atlanta Athletic Club and who arrived in Atlanta Friday from the Philadelphia headquarters of the chain dairy corporation, of which he is treasurer, were at the local dairy plant Sunday going over reports for the week in one of the offices, which are situated on the second floor above the dairy proper.

The two bandits, flashing old-looking revolvers, slipped into the office where the company executives were working and commanded Brown and Trainer to hold up their hands. The bandits ordered the two dairy men to lie prone upon the floor of the office and then bound the hands and feet of the company officers and left them to explore the office.

Their first move was toward the safe, which was standing open, about six or seven feet away from the bound dairy executives. The bandits found the money box in the safe locked.

Forced to Open Box.
Brown was then bound by one of the bandits and forced to unlock the money box while the bandit trainer was busy upon the safe contents, close to $5,000, was taken from the box by the bandits, the money representing cash receipts collected Saturday.

The bandits found another compartment of the safe locked and ordered Brown to open it as well. Brown replied that he had no key. The key was, believing that the dairy manager was "bluffing," the holdup men handled him roughly but failed to receive the desired information. They then rebound Brown and ordered Trainer to unlock the compartment, but no key could be located and Trainer was finally upon the floor. The open with screw driver. The compartment was ransacked but found to contain nothing of value.

Catts said that there was nothing more to take from the safe, the two bandits made a thorough search of the office, ransacking the drawers of desks. They remained in the office about 15 minutes. Brown and Trainer said in their statement to the investigating authorities.

The police were told the bandits started to leave the office but returned to see that the wires binding Brown and Trainer were secure. After the intruders had been gone for about five minutes the managers called out, asking if it were all right for them to get up. Receiving no reply, they took it for granted that the bandits had departed and they managed to work themselves free from the wire fetters.

Entered by Staircase.
The entrance to the offices of the dairy is by way of a staircase on the outside of the building, facing Haynes street. According to the information learned by police, the bandits had been forced to use this means of getting

Russians Shoot 26 Wealthy Peasants for Opposition To Government Campaign

Two Priests Are Slain by Soviet Soldiers; Farmers Burn Grain To Prevent Seizure.

Moscow, U. S. S. R., October 27.—(P)—Dispatches to the official Tass News Agency today said that 26 kulaks, or rich peasants, in various parts of soviet Russia had been shot for opposing the government's campaign. The government has encountered some enormous difficulties in its double purpose of gathering grain from the peasantry and converting the present small peasant land holdings into large collective farms.

In the village of Gari, near Ivanova-Vosnesensk, where the local cemetery was included in a new collective farm established by the government, two priests and two rich peasants were shot for spreading a rumor that the government would destroy the graves and close the church. These rumors had led the population to take severe measures in reprisal against government inspectors and members of the communist organization.

In the village of Maly Penki, in the same district, two brothers named Kordiang were shot for opposing the establishment of a collective farm by burning their grain and terrorizing local communists.

Shot for Murder. For the murder of a government grain collector at Taskova, in the Tomsk district, five kulaks were shot. The inspector had reported on their activities. At different points in Orelsk province on the same day 15 kulaks were similarly executed either for opposing a government project or deliberately burning their grain to prevent the authorities from taking it.

The government prosecuting officials have made no secret of these summary executions, which are only a few of those carried out to date in the determination of the authorities to fulfill their plans without regard to consequences.

The death sentence also was pronounced today on four members of the Preobrazhensky church in the town of Kimri, in Moscow province, for "counter-revolutionary activities." The priest Kolerov was among them and a number of others identified with the same church were sentenced to from 4 to 10 years' imprisonment.

It was charged that when government agents attempted to close the church the priest and his assistants rushed to the church tower and rang the bells. Hundreds of villagers assembled, and, under the alleged in-

FATHER AND GIRL SHOT TO DEATH BY UNKNOWN FELON

Arkansas City, Kan., October 27.—(P)—Carl Jones, 40-year-old farmer, and his step-daughter, Elizabeth Walworth, 20, were found shot to death at the Jones farm 4 miles west of Arkansas City this morning.

Part of the farmer's head had been blown off by a shotgun charge, apparently fired at close range. His body was found about 100 yards from the house. The body of the girl was found in the house by Jones' 10-year-old son, who was not awakened by the shots and did not discover the bodies until 8 a. m.

LONDON COPS HALT GASTONIA STRIKE PROTEST PARADE

London, October 27.—(P)—Communists and mounted police tonight had a sharp conflict in the vicinity of Victoria station.

Several hundred persons attempted to march from Trafalgar Square to the American embassy as a demonstration against alleged persecution of militant workers in general and the Gastonia, N. C., textile workers especially. They had prepared a resolution of protest to be left for the ambassador.

The police finally broke up the demonstration and arrested many of the participants.

KAHN'S APPOINTMENT SURPRISES PARTY

Creation of Treasurer's Post Is Departure for Republican Collections.

Washington, October 27.—(P)—National republican leaders are just getting over their surprise at the sudden announcement this week by Chairman Moses, of the republican senatorial committee, that Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, would be treasurer for the committee.

The surprise was occasioned not so much by Kahn's appointment as by the fact that any treasurer was named. According to some of the party leaders, all arrangements had been made as in the past, for the republican national committee to raise the funds for the senatorial committee.

But the independent, outspoken Moses is not doing it that way this year and now that they have found it out, the surprised party leaders are going to abide by his decision.

Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the republican national committee, who is understood to have started raising the funds for the conduct of the republican senatorial campaign, apparently was one of the most surprised at the announcement of Senator Moses which was made at the dinner of New York republicans to Claudius Houston, new chairman of the republican national committee, last week.

"Mr. Kahn is to be treasurer of the republican senatorial committee," Senator Moses reiterated today. It was his reply to reports that party leaders were surprised by his decision. Senator Moses has disclaimed any intention of making war on the republican independent faction in the senate which has opposed the Hoover administration on the farm relief and tariff legislation. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, joins in this disclaimer. The republican chiefs say they will have a busy enough time assuring the election of sufficient of the 20 republicans for re-election next year to retain control of the senate.

MILK POURED OUT IN DAIRY WAR AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, October 27.—(P)—Sabotage today again marked the strike of Milk Producers' Association of Greater Kansas City. Forty gallons of milk was dumped by sympathizers with the milk producers from a truck which they attempted to disable.

Will Calaghan, who trucks milk to pasteurizers from the Belton (Mo.) and Cleveland (Mo.) vicinities, today was stopped just west of the Missouri-Kansas state line in Kansas, he said, by a group of men who had been riding in five motor cars.

The forty gallons of milk he had collected was poured out, and Calaghan said one of the men then raised the hood over the motor of the truck and poured a handful of emery dust into the oil in the crank case. Calaghan said no attempt was made to harm him.

Farmers in the vicinity in which he collects milk, Calaghan said, have been warned to cease supplying milk to Kansas City pasteurizers, or their dairy barns will be burned. The threats were made over the telephone, the truck driver said.

EDISON NAMED MEMBER OF ITALY'S SCIENCE ACADEMY

He pointed out that Edison had contributed greatly toward the utilization of Italian water power for the generation of electrical energy for power and light, making Italy independent of coal producing countries.

They knew what they wanted

SEVERAL years ago a play with this title was popular. A tale it told, of life in the vineyards of California—and how the members of a little household there solved their problem of domestic happiness because they had the good fortune to know what they wanted.

Today successful housewives everywhere are solving the problems of housekeeping—simply, easily, happily—by knowing what they want before they start out to buy. And knowing what they want isn't a matter of good fortune. It's a matter of foresight and forethought.

They read the advertisements—regularly, thoroughly! They save hours of shopping time by having their minds made up before they begin to buy. They know quality brands, comparative values, dependable merchandise. They don't waste time and risk money in investigating "unknowns" and "just-as-goods."

When a manufacturer places himself on record in the printed page, he is forced to guarantee you consistent quality and service—or the disapproval of millions quickly forces him out of the market. Constitution advertised goods are reliable. Read the advertisements every day. Know what you want before you spend a cent.

Reading The Constitution advertisements is an important part of successfully managing a home.

22 MOTOR ACCIDENTS REPORTED TO POLICE

One Dead and Several Injured Is Toll of Score of Crashes Over Week-End.

Twenty-two auto accidents, resulting in one fatality and a number of injuries, were reported at police headquarters over the week-end.

Charles Barrett, 17, of 194 Powell street, driver of an auto which early Saturday struck down James Clifton Hall, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hall, 153 Delton place, was released by city police Sunday night without bond. He will be arraigned, however, on a reckless driving charge some time this week.

The Hall child died in a hospital Saturday night of injuries received in the accident. According to Barrett, the child ran directly in front of his machine and it was impossible to avoid hitting him.

Margaret Flowermoy, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Flowermoy, 1729 Milrose drive, was struck and slightly injured near her home Sunday afternoon by a car driven by Mrs. H. L. Camp, of 980 Hart drive.

Mrs. Camp herself suffered lacerations about the head and face when she drove her car into a telephone pole in an effort to avoid the accident. Both were treated by private physicians, according to report by Call Officers M. O. Evans and E. H. Norwood.

Plainclothes Officer R. C. McGill reported to Captain Grove Fain Sunday that an auto he was driving west on North avenue Saturday night was struck by a car driven by G. D. Gassaway, of Hapeville. The driver's car was severely damaged and Mrs. McGill was badly shaken up. Gassaway was arrested by Call Officers S. C. Wallace and R. L. Lawson on charges of drunkenness, reckless driving and attempting to leave the scene of an accident.

Generosity Returned—Give, and it shall be given unto you: good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom.
For with the same measure that ye mete withal, it shall be measured to you again.— Luke 6:38.

Prayer:
Help us always to remember: It is more blessed to give than to receive.

HANCOCK'S GHOST RETURNS.

Now that the tariff fight in the senate has reached the fixing of rates upon specific subjects, it is shown that nearly every senator has his net in hand to capture something for his own local or regional constituents. The solidarity and concert of action of the democrats insurgent coalition is seriously threatened.

In fact, calcium carbide, on its first dash out of the box, broke the combination. Senators from the states that produce the stuff deserted the coalitionists who stood pat with Horatio Norris, and joined the erst highlanders to protect their local industry. As the eastern papers are pointing out, with sardonic grins, they are proving that General Hancock was righter than he dreamed when he said back in 1880 that "the tariff is a local issue."

It is a local issue in most of its incidents and effects; local to Georgia in naval stores, marbles and manganese, for example; local to Florida in fruits, vegetables, lumber and phosphates; local to Alabama in metals and calcium carbide; and local to Louisiana in sugar, sulphur and salt.

So we shall see a free-for-all struggle in the congress between the contenders for local interests and what the total outcome may be when the bill is agreed upon only the gods, or Joe Grundy, could tell.

FREEDOM FOR ATHLETICS.

The scouts of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching have stirred a mighty far-flung rucus by charging colleges and universities with subsidizing their athletic stars. The presidents, dean and athletic directors of most of the black-listed institutions have replied in tones and with facts of rebuttal that should "hold" the Foundation critics for a while, if not for all time.

When men of such standing as those responsible for the conduct of our leading colleges and universities, and who deny the imputations of the Foundation's report, uphold the ethics of their athletics
they must be heard with respect.
They surely will not be held to be in a conspiracy to conceal the truth in general.

Athletics have grown to be anella of our educational institutions for very practical and defensible reasons. They follow a Greek formula that made history in the classic age and has been revived with vigor and favor in this modern age of intellectual and physical co-ordina-tions. To suggest now that baseball should be reduced again to the first-over-fist rules of town-ball, or that football should be brought down again to the beef-bladder kicking of the eighteenth mid-century is too ridiculous.

If the American spirit of sport cannot trust itself to discriminate between fair and unfair methods of "playing the game," then we should agree that the constitution should be again amended to prohibit college athletics with the rubber-tube of another Volstead act!

FLYING THE WRONG WAY.

The defense departments at Washington are becoming concerned over the frequent resignations of expert officers who are leaving the national service to engage in private or corporation business. Men of high technical training and abilities, some of whom have contributed valuable new methods and inventions to the arms of the nation, find their financial needs compelling them to hire out to more appreciative and liberal employers than their Uncle Sam.

That is not a matter of casual concern. It has implications of serious lacks in the national defense personnel. It should attract attention by the military and naval af-airs committees of congress and lead to recommendations that will correct the deficiencies of pay that are compelling many able officers to find relief in civil life.

Recently several of the most efficient technicians in the aviation services of the army and administrative departments have resigned and gone into civil employments with aviation corporations. Their going has been publicly deplored by department officials because they are hard to replace with others now in the services.

A nation as great as ours and that will be increasingly dependent upon aviation both in times of peace and in war periods, should take care to keep its smartest experts at any reasonable cost.

FLORIDA'S NEW BANKS.

News reports of the application by the DuPont interests for permission to open national banks in five Florida towns, tell the story of another step toward putting the financial and economic affairs of Georgia's sister state upon a sound foundation.

Gradually this great commonwealth, in many respects the most favored by nature of any of the states, is doing away with the mushroom growth of its boom days and building up its financial condition so that it may reap to the fullest from the magnificent resources and splendid climatic advantages with which nature has endowed it.

No state in America, according to leading agricultural and government experts, has so wide a variety of products. In no state in the Union can these products be as cheaply raised under as healthy living conditions as in Florida.

With the financial backbone of its great citrus crops, Florida could easily, through dairying and diversified crops of every nature, raise its per capita wealth to the first rank. And this it seems to be well on the way to accomplishing with the solidifying of its financial system to a point where the state can resist without backset the temporary ailments which in the past have retarded its development.

A state which adds the lure of life to the magnificent opportunities for wealth to the degree that Florida does, should be irresistible in its steady march towards happiness and prosperity. No more striking evidence of the appeal of this unique combination could be found than in the story of Alfred I. Du-Pont's entry into the banking situation in Florida.

Shortly after the boom, DuPont, a man well on in years and of great wealth, built a magnificent home on the St. Johns river. He expected to retire and spend the remaining days of his life in well-earned enjoyment of the riches he had built up as the result of strenuous years at the head of one of the world's greatest corporations.

But Florida's need for an improved and sounder banking system, as shown by the needless number of financial institutions that closed as a result of the hysteria following the agitation over the Mediterranean fly, and the peculiar appeal which draws in close to the heartstrings of those who know it, brought Mr. DuPont to the front with a proposition to replace many of the closed banks with national banks, the very existence of which would add to the soundness of the state's financial situation.

Starting his first bank at Lakeland, with a capital of $100,000, its deposits within a month exceeded $1,500,000. With this hearty cooperation from the citizens of Florida, plans were immediately matured for the establishment of other banks and soon it is expected that a network of small, but essentially sound, national banks will cover the entire state.

These banks, added to the already considerable number of splendid financial institutions throughout Florida, will mean not only that the backsets which Florida has suffered in the past will be fewer, but that those which do come from providential reasons, can be met with a firm financial front and will have no lasting results.

The business courage and devotion to their state of the citizens of Florida has been proven time and time again, and the entire country should rejoice over the evidence now presented that the state is building a firm financial foundation which will result in its reaping to the full of the wealth and happiness of life to which it is so fully entitled.

Young Stribling, another favorite son of Georgia, is to match his fistic prowess against Primo Carnera, an Italian, weighing 280 pounds and standing 6 feet and 10 inches high. We are for Stribling, but down in our heart we believe he is taking on too much territory.

Real estate operators in Chicago are advertising suburban property cause he is a discoverer instead of a lecturer.

Q. Do all bodies fall with the same velocity?

A. If two compact spheres of the same size, one weighing one pound and the other 10 pounds, are dropped in the open air from the same altitude, they will fall in the same space of time. Galileo tried this experiment late in the sixteenth century by dropping balls of different sizes and materials from the top of the tower of Pisa, 180 feet high, and found that they fell with practically the same velocity. He showed that even very light bodies like paper fall with velocities which approach more and more nearly those of heavier masses, the more completely they were wadded together. From these experiments he concluded that all bodies, even the lightest, would fall at the same rate were it not for the resistance of air.

Q. What is a "firkin"?

A. The "firkin" mentioned in John planned to hold the next congress in Carthage, Africa, in 1930.

Q. Why is it necessary to shoot horses when they break their legs?

A. Because it is so difficult to heal the broken bones successfully and quite expensive to try.

Q. Is coal indestructible matter?

A. When it is broken up it is converted into other forms of matter.

Q. What denomination is "The Little Church Around the Corner," and when was it built?

Sermons To Live By

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY.

Text: "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat." II Thess. 3:10.

The unerring truth is the secret of success; whether a man drive himself to it as the result of a determined purpose, or whether a man indulge himself in it through the attractions of an art or some form of labor in which he delights.

The latter is a man of genius, the former is a man of talent; both are admirable and both are useful; but neither would be of any benefit to society, or any satisfaction to themselves, or of any praise to God without the other. In the event of their lives and histories, namely, the plain old-fashioned hard work.

"Work is the foundation of all business."

"Work is the fount of all prosperity."

"Work is the parent of genius."

"Work is the salt that gives life its savour."

"Work laid the foundation of every fortune in America," from Rockefeller's down.

Says Atticus G. Haygood, giant teller and tremendous achiever,
"Thank God I can drudge."

Says Thomas A. Edison, modern inventor of the world, "I have no secret inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration."

Joshua Reynolds, matchless portrait painter of England, says, "I am a man whose industry will improve; if he has it not, industry will supply its place."

The Carpenter of Nazareth said,
"My Father worketh hitherto, and I work," thus calling every idler to fall upon his knees in abashed penitence.

"He looked to find the road to fame.
But not a highway bore that name.
He thought to glory there must be
A level path that should be true;
But every road to which he came Possessed a terrifying charm.
He never thought that fame might lurk
Along the dreary path called Work."

He never thought to go and seek
The master cure for fear and anxiety.
What marked the road called Industry.
Because it seemed so rough and high,
Because the road of idleness was by
Yet had he taken either way.
He might have come to fame some day."

The Signs of the Times That Give Hope of a Democratic Comeback.

Six months from now the democrats and republicans in every state will be fermenting and planning for the congressional election that will occur a few days more than a year from now.

Except for the senators who were elected last November only a small number of the new congressmen turned up by the Hoover landslide have been seen. The House leaders refused to let a single branch of the congress further than to appoint the committees on ways and means, agriculture and appropriations, with the decision to deal only with tariff revision and farm relief, as proposed by President Hoover in summing up the pending extra session. And on those large and standard committees were the older and experienced members, as was perfectly proper and wise.

The "fresh fish," therefore, have had no chance to perform other than as "yes-men" to their party leaders and might as well have been robots with rubber-lungs to be squeezed by Leader Tilson and Leader Garner for the purpose of "yes" or "no."
Other than for quorum-making about 400 of those 435 House members are legislative jokes, but they are generally useful as clerks for their constituents back home who have business with the various departments of the government at Washington. For those purposes "they are doubtless worth their cost."

Party Power Demands a Quorum.
Our American plan of government by parties, and generally by one or the other of two major parties, makes necessary for the party that would lead either house of congress to elect a majority of the members, for a majority makes the needed quorum to do business.

Now the democrats are the minority in both the chambers and naturally they are anxious to go into the congressional elections next year with every possible chance to win a majority in one or both of the bodies.
For that reason, unless there comes meanwhile an unexpected and decisive loss of confidence and com-paign munitions, the democrats should put up one of the strongest battles in their history and the odds should be upset in their favor.

The democratic chances to win a majority in the senate are not equally good. Only a third of the senators are to be elected. They are elected by the popular vote at large in each state. And it has happened in many states that one party has been elected majority of the popular vote, but the other party has won the senate seats.

United States Is Concerned In League of Nations' Work To Promote Free Trade Flow

Proposed Economic States of Europe Warned About Discrimination in Any Way Against America.

New York, October 27.—(United News.)—The United States, home of the protective tariff and a customary hands-off policy with respect to the League of Nations, has become deeply concerned with the league's efforts to promote a free flow of trade.

It has served notice that it does not expect the proposed economic states of Europe to discriminate against the United States in any way. It has taken the leadership in the league's efforts to beat down export and import restrictions. It has been invited to attend an international congress to study difficulties confronting agriculture—a subject often linked with the tariff in the United States.

Lucius Eastman, unofficial United States observer at the league's economic commissions sessions, made clear at Geneva Friday that Washington does not favor an economic United States of Europe if such a federation is intended to discriminate against other countries—including America.

He expressed confidence, however, that such was not the case, and intiated the American public was prepared to stand by and cheer if the proposed U. S. of E. improved the economic condition of its member nations.

What Eastman plainly meant was that the United States does not propose to suffer without protest if the federated states of Europe charge lower tariff duties on each other's goods than on goods made in America.

Truce Sought.
The plan the commission has under consideration is to get European countries—and others—to declare a two-year "truce" during which tariffs would not be increased and after which they would be lowered progressively.

Such a truce might be regarded as a step toward a United States of Europe, it is believed. But, meantime, the protests of more than twenty nations against the high tariffs now contemplated by the United States congress have gone apparently unheeded, and little likelihood is held that Americans would join wholeheartedly in any "truce" plan.

In another league move toward free trade the United States has acted as more than an observer—has, in fact, taken the lead.

Export and import restrictions had been ratified by one less than the eighteen states necessary to make it effective by a given date, and the league secretariat of the United States was disposed to render the convention effective anyhow among the seventeen nations that had ratified.

"Fine," was the purport of Sir Eric Drummond's response, and as secretary general of the league he has called for a new conference on the subject to be held in Paris December 5. The meeting will be attended by all nations that signed the convention in the first place, and it is hoped that an arrangement can be made to effect the convention in all countries that

WURLITZER BUYS $650,000 VIOLINS FOR COLLECTION

New York, October 27.—(United News.)—Rudolph Wurlitzer, millionaire musical instrument manufacturer, announced today his acquisition of the Rodman Wanamaker collection of rare violins, valued at more than $650,000.

Wurlitzer is believed now to have the greatest collection of such instruments in the world. It is valued at around $3,000,000.

Included in the Wanamaker collection are 64 violins, violas, cellos, guitars and a harp. Five of the violins are the work of Antonio Stradivari, the master Italian craftsman of the eighteenth century.

STOLEN IRON SAFE TAKEN FROM RIVER AFTER TWO YEARS

Biloxi, Miss., October 27.—(P)—An iron safe that had been in the waters of Tchoutacabouf river for two years, property of the Hamilton commissary in the northern part of Jackson county was fished out today.

The safe had been stolen and when broken open today authorities found it contained $254 in currency, $465 in silver, $1.11 in pennies, bonds and valuable papers. The safe was found by fishermen when it became attached to a fishing hook. Renewed efforts to find the thieves are being made.

have ratified it or will ratify it in the future.

The states that have ratified to date are Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, England, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Holland, Portugal, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States.

Conditions.
A number of those, however, have made their ratifications conditional upon the convention being accepted by several other central European states, such as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Germany and even Turkey.

The present barrier of import and export restrictions is a "hang-over" from the World War. During the conflict practically every nation restricted exportation of raw materials and of manufactured goods vital in its conduct of the war. After the armistice, some of the export restrictions continued, and import restrictions were added. Under the latter, importation of luxury articles and other unnecessary commodities was forbidden or limited in an effort to restore normal trade balances and prevent increases in exchange rates.

Whether the league's efforts to solve international problems of agriculture will be linked to the tariff is a matter of speculation. The league's economic commission, which will convene the agricultural conference at the beginning of next year, is the same commission that is now studying the tariff problem.

Countries invited to send farm experts include the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Argentina, Australia, Canada, Spain, Italy and France.

Greatest Gambling House In World To Open Sunday

AMERICAN WINS LICENSE FOR RIVIERA CASINO

Nice, France, October 27.—(United News.)—Frank Jay Gould announced today that he had won his two-year fight to obtain from the French government a gambling license which will enable him to open his $4,000,000 casino overlooking the Mediterranean here. He is pushing plans to open the palace to the public next Sunday.

The palace is described as the most pretentious in Europe. It occupies two acres of ground and is ten times larger than the casino at Monte Carlo. Eight hundred sixty tons of marble were used in its construction. The marble-walled gambling room contains 42 tables with seats for 600 players. Five hundred employees, including managers, croupiers, cashiers, waiters and doormen are required to operate the gambling palace.

Has Famous Doorman.
To guard against the admission of undesirables, Gould has engaged Monsieur Barthou, the most famous doorman on the Riviera. Barthou is widely known as "the man with the photographic mind." He is said never to forget a face. His mixed and photographic appearance of every person as he stands at the door admitting guests. The immense casino, which Gould describes as "a place the Caesars could not have built," was announced early in 1926 by Gould, who has lived in France for years and bought up a number of large hotels and resorts on the Riviera.

At that time Gould said his casino would be named the Palace Venetien and would surpass all other famous gambling resorts of the Riviera.

Aided by Officials.
His announcement caused a general boom in real estate prices throughout the district, and civic leaders of Nice immediately hailed the project with enthusiasm.

The casino was built, but despite the support of Nice officials, the government had refused to grant Gould a gambling permit.

In finally getting the government license Gould was assisted by the mayor of Nice, who went to Paris and pleaded with government officials that the monetary loss Gould would suffer through inability to open the casino would prompt other foreign capitalists to refuse to invest their money in France.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA GOES TO POLLS TO NAME CONGRESS

Prague, Czechoslovakia, October 27.—(P)—Polling began quietly this morning in the general elections. Three hundred congressmen will be chosen for six-year terms and 150 senators for seven-year terms to form the Czechoslovakian parliament.

Only 19 political parties or factions presented candidates, compared with 29 groups in 1925. The people vote for parties, not for individual candidates. A total of 8,196,719 persons had the right to vote in this election, an increase of 500,000 over last election.

Millions of handbills were distributed by workers for the various parties. Posters covered walls in Prague and street cars were transformed into moving propaganda wagons.

HEAD OF BROKERAGE HOUSE IS HELD FOR GRAND LARCENY

New York, October 27.—(P)—The head of a brokerage house was held without bail in Tombs court today on a charge of grand larceny growing out of alleged failure of his firm to give receipts for $80,100 worth of stock.

The broker, George M. Gallop, 44, of Cedarhurst, N. Y., made no statement in court. His hearing was set for Friday.

Attorneys representing firms which delivered the stock to Gallop's firm, Baron and Company, asked Magistrate Brough to fix bail at $75,000, but the court decided to hold the prisoner without bail.

Gallop was arrested yesterday at Broad and Wall streets. Messengers were there.

Seven Die as British Plane Sinks During Heavy Storm On Ligurian Sea; None Saved

Effort To Tow Great Air Liner Fails as Waves Break Cables; Second in Four Months.

Genoa, Italy, October 27.—(AP)—A British tri-motored airplane in the India service carried seven persons to their deaths in the Ligurian sea yesterday. The torpedo boat Sella, searching the area of the waters where the plane had been forced down, found the body of the pilot, but no trace of the plane or the other persons.

Later yesterday the British plane in an SOS message, said it was being forced to descend to the sea near Spezia owing to bad weather conditions.

The sea at the time was rough. An Italian seaplane put out yesterday to the rescue, but was unable to find the craft.

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS CONFIRMS TRAGEDY.

Croydon, England, October 27.—(AP)—The Imperial Airways tonight announced the loss of the Indian air liner City of Rome, with seven persons, during a gale off Genoa yesterday. It was the second disaster in a little more than four months on its line, and in the first seven lives also were lost.

A Miss Gromford was the only woman on board. The other passengers were two men named Robinson and Ritchie and Customs Officer Turner, who was returning to his post at the airport here after a holiday in Naples. Captain Birt, the pilot, was an experienced officer. The others in the crew were Engineer Pembroke and Operator Stone.

70-Mile Gale.

Complete details still were lacking tonight, but, according to the statement of the Airways, the airplane met with terrific weather at Leghorn, after leaving Naples. The gale exceeded 70 miles an hour.

The Italian steamer Famiglia from Genoa, responding to an SOS, was said to have found the airship riding the heavy seas well, 10 miles south of Spezia. It got three tow ropes aboard and towed the plane for an hour. The seas were so terrific that the hawsers snapped and the steamer put into Spezia for further assistance.

Tri-Motored Job.

Since then destroyers and aircraft searched the spot, but found nothing and it was reluctantly concluded that all had drowned.

The City of Rome was a big three-motored machine capable of carrying 15 passengers. It was similar to the machine used by Sir Alan Cobham in his 20,000-mile trip around Africa. The air-mail service between Karachi, India, and London was started only last month.

On June 17 seven lives were lost when the City of Ottawa, of the Imperial Airways, plunged into the water while flying over the English channel.

WOMAN ARRANGES FUNERAL AND DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Lancaster, Pa., October 27.—(Unit. News)—A premonition that she was going to be killed during the day prompted Mrs. Mary Blair, 62, to tell her employer yesterday what arrangements should be made after her death.

Last night as she stepped from a curb she was struck by an automobile driven by Catherine Zook, 16, and dragged almost 75 feet. She died shortly after reaching the hospital.

The victim's employer complied with her last wish and notified the undertaker.

Rain Scheduled To Fall Today, Forecast Says

Increasing cloudiness followed by showers is forecast for Atlantans to day by C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist of the weather bureau.

No marked change in temperature is expected, with the thermometer due to range between 50 and 70 degrees.

ESCAPED CONVICT'S BODY IS FOUND; WOUND IN HEAD

Eureka, Utah, October 27.—(AP)—Gustave Kahl, alias August Baum, escaped San Quentin, California, convict, has made good his boast that he would never return to prison. His body was found today in a deserted cabin 17 miles from here with a bullet wound in his head. A revolver was in his hand.

Kahl had lived in this vicinity more than 10 years and was a respected citizen. About 10 days ago two boys were hunting rabbits on the ranch where Kahl or Baum, as he was known here, worked. Kahl ordered them off the place at the point of a rifle. Sheriff N. M. Kaighn, of Juab county, was notified and located a cache of liquor which belonged to Kahl.

BISHOP SPEAKS AT OLD NEW YORK METHODIST CHURCH

New York, October 27.—(AP)—Bishop Horace M. DuBose, Nashville, Tenn., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today preached at the opening of a week's celebration of the 161st anniversary of the old John Street M. E. church, known as the "cradle of American Methodism."

Bishop DuBose criticized modern dogmatism which "pares down the word of God to fit the populace."

He unveiled oil paintings of Philip Embury, first preacher in American Methodism, and his wife, Margaret, who founded the church in 1768.

NEW ANNUITY PLAN FOR WESTINGHOUSE WORKERS IS MADE

Pittsburgh, Pa., October 27.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, according to an announcement by President Frank A. Merriam, has substituted an annuity plan for the pension system of the concern. The retirement age is set at 65 and employees will be given an opportunity to buy additional retirement income other than that provided by the company.

The company's part of the plan will be operated by Westinghouse itself. Under the plan, the amount of annuity an employee receives will be computed according to his salary or wage, and length of service. An insurance company will underwrite the employees' part of the plan.

The project concerns all the 50,000 employees on the Westinghouse pay roll.

SLAYER'S "BARGAIN" FAILS TO SAVE LIFE

Jury Sends Bank Robber to Gallows Despite "Agreement" With State.

Lamar, Colo., October 27.—(AP)—Ralph Fleagle, last of three admitted bank robbers and slayers to be sentenced to death on the gallows by juries here, attempted to buy his way out of jail when he saw the shadow of the noose, it was learned today.

Fleagle, with Howard L. Royston, and George J. Ashier, confessed the holdup of the First National Bank here in May, 1923, and the subsequent slaying of four men in connection with the robbery. One other member of the gang, Jake Fleagle, brother of Ralph, still is at large.

Ralph Fleagle told officers every detail of the crime in consideration for a promise by the state that the death penalty would not be asked in his trial. Prosecutors, accordingly, did not ask the death penalty, but a jury last night returned that verdict anyway after being informed by witnesses of the "bargain."

Meanwhile, in the Provers county jail here Fleagle, feeling his end approaching, Thursday accosted Under-Sheriff Guy Firebaugh, offering him a handsome reward if the officer would turn away momentarily and leave the way open for a dash for freedom by Fleagle. The officer, so incensed at the attempted bribe, ordered Fleagle put in close confinement, even before Fleagle had an opportunity to specify the amount he would pay.

Ashier and Royston last Friday were removed to Pueblo, Colo., for safe-keeping, while the Fleagle trial was in progress. Fleagle last night was spirited out of the jail here by officers, who took him to Golden, Colo., 15 miles west of Denver. He was closely guarded and shackled.

Appeals for new trials in Ashier's and Royston's cases were denied by the presiding judge. Appeal for a new trial by counsel for Fleagle is yet to be heard. Defense attorneys said the appeals will be carried to state supreme court.

INTERNAL STRIFE DISRUPTS NEWLY ORGANIZED UNION

Belleville, Ill., October 27.—(AP)—Internal disorder in the newly organized National Miners' Union flared up here today when the state convention of the organization unanimously adopted a resolution calling for a miners' strike to recognize John Watt, of Springfield, Ill., as national president of the union.

The resolution charges that Watt "is an enemy and is endeavoring to split the union," and demands that "in the name of the union, all cease activities in the state of Illinois."

It repudiates him as national president of the union.

The action of the convention climaxed a heated debate that continued throughout the day. It started when Henry Corbushy, of West Frankfort, Ill., state secretary, took the floor and denounced Watt, charging him with "corrupting the union with his policies and refusing to follow the policies laid down by the national executive board."

ARCTIC EXPEDITION ON GRAF ZEPPELIN STARTS IN APRIL

New York, October 27.—(AP)—Dr. Walter Bleistein, secretary and treasurer of the Aeroarctic Society, today announced plans for a voyage of Arctic exploration aboard the Graf Zeppelin to be taken next April by a group of 12 scientists headed by Fritzjof Nansen.

Dr. Bleistein, who arrived from Europe today on the liner Reliance, said he was going to Washington to discuss final arrangements for the expedition with Dr. John Fleming, acting vice president of the American branch of the Aeroarctic Society.

The plan, as outlined by Dr. Bleistein, is for the Graf Zeppelin to go from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Tromsø, in Norway, where a mooring mast has been erected. From Tromsø the air liner is to cruise to Fairbanks, Alaska, where Dr. Bleistein said a mast is now being erected, and from there over the Bering and Siberia and back to Friedrichshafen.

COLLEGE YOUTHS GET JAIL TERMS IN FRAT HOUSE FIRE

Philadelphia, October 27.—(AP)—Three young men who said they were University of Pennsylvania students were sentenced by a magistrate today to 10 days each in the county prison on charges of destroying property and disorderly conduct. They gave their names as Stanley C. Brown, Frank J. Novello and Stanley.

The young men were arrested on the grounds of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity house by fire officials. The fraternity house was destroyed by fire last Sunday and since then deputy fire marshals had kept constant watch in an effort to trap the "firebreath."

Assistant Fire Marshal James McLaughlin said that early today more than 100 students were celebrating "Pennsylvania's" football victory over Lehigh and that when they reached the wrecked fraternity house they tore down an iron fence on one side of the building. McLaughlin declared one of the students had shouted, "Let's set it on fire again."

McLaughlin asserted that while he and his deputies were taking the three youths to a police box other students attacked them and that the fire officials were forced to draw their pistols to hold the crowd in check.

Couldn't Eat or Sleep—Gas, GAS All the Time!

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I couldn't eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A lady suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine, and never feel better."—Mrs. Jas. Filler.

The simple glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline compound (known as Adlerika), acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels. It brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headache or nervousness.

Try this simple proof: Take any medicine which acts on lower bowel only, as most laxatives do. After your bowels have moved, take Adlerika and you will be astonished at how much MORE sour, old matter and GAS is brought out.

What Doctors Say
Dr. H. L. South, New York: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Dr. A. J. Lancaster: "In gastro-intestinal diseases (where good bowel action is needed) Adlerika has no equal."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just ONE spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Be sure to get genuine Adlerika in tin-folled bottles.

Take this to any druggist and get a 15c discount on your first bottle of Adlerika.
To Druggists: We give you 15c cash for this. Not returnable. Name and address PLAINLY written so we can write them. Adlerika Co., Dept. 11, St. Paul, Minn.

At first glance all the young ladies look alike; but you are asked to find the Twins that are clothed exactly alike. Now then: upon closer examination you will find a difference in their wearing apparel. Have they all earrings or necklaces? How about their coats and hats? Are they trimmed the same? Some have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat.

It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

When you have found the twins, write the numbers in the coupon at right, fill in your name and complete address and vanced European touches in interior design. I saw our neon tubes—which we use as casually and naturally as Daniel Boone used to use his ax—given a minor embellishment or two and retailed as the most advanced European conception in modernistic lighting.

Vassos, who is a most observing fellow, catalogued a number of other things he saw, all of which he asserted originated in the United States and which were employed in United States art by United States artists and artisans, but were customarily catalogued by United States critics as being "after the French" or some other school.

Rashful.
Vassos seemed very much put out by the spectacle. It led him to observe that his adopted countrymen are really a talented, timid and polite people, almost too bashful for this world.

"We should assert our world supremacy in art as the English assert their world supremacy in race," advised Vassos, after probing the outwardly grandiose, but inwardly hesitant attitude with which Americans customarily approach contacts with the outside world, whether it is a matter of tipping the head waiter of a famous Paris restaurant or of suggesting that an interminable peace might be a good thing.

Vassos had but only completed a grand criticism of America before he went to Europe for a vacation. It is a portfolio of twenty drawings entitled "Contempo," in which, with a collaborator's text, he gives his impressions of this noisy age, including the department store, traffic, modern life, in safe, as in other Vassos drawings, critical appreciation has not been wanting, despite the fact that you can sit down and look at one of them and get a good idea of what Mr. Vassos was driving at.

Foreword.
But the book of drawings, as a result of Vassos' European rest cure after completing them, has a radically different foreword from the one he originally wrote.

The original one began, "The torch lit by Cezanne and taken up in Europe and by American inventive genius..." The foreword actually printed—at the last moment after Vassos' rest trip—starts instead:

"The torch lit by American inventive genius and taken up in Europe by such rebellious spirits as Cezanne and Van Gogh is now the burning force that actuates the painting of such men as Marin, the music of Gershwin, the writing of Robinson Jeffers..."

Vassos, who is becoming increasingly important as a popular "modern," may finally have to take refuge in his native Constantinople as a result of speaking out of turn.

GOVERNMENT MAY EXPERIMENT WITH ISOLATING RADIUM

Washington, October 27.—(AP)—The government would go into the business of isolating radium under a draft of a bill Representative Kelly, republican, Pennsylvania, plans to introduce tomorrow.

The proposed measure would authorize the bureau of mines to expend $100,000 in obtaining one gram of radium, said to be worth about $70,000 on the market. The lone gram would be used in treatment of World War veterans in government hospitals.

Kelly said the purpose of the legislation would be to demonstrate that radium could be extracted in this country in competition with the output of the Belgian Congo. In 1924, the American manufacturers had to close down their mills because of the discovery of cheaper radium in the Congo.

In order to obtain one gram of radium, Kelly said, the American Manufacturers had to treat about 600,000 tons of ore with chemicals. Radium ore deposits, he said, had been found in Utah and other western states.

HALL-LAVARRE DISPUTE AGAIN IN COURT TODAY

Side Issue in Paper Case To Be Reviewed at Macon by Judge Deaver.

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(AP)—Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver Monday will pass on a side issue of the complicated Harold Hall-William Lavarre newspaper litigation concerning the issuance of New York certificates of three South Carolina newspapers to J. T. Webb, Jr., special commissioner.

The judge will decide on the petition for direction filed by Mr. Webb setting forth conflicting terms in the order of Judge Deaver and federal court in Columbia, S. C. Judge Deaver had ordered Lavarre to surrender new stock certificates of the four Hall-Lavarre newspapers, the Augusta Chronicle, the Columbia Record and the Spartanburg Herald and Journal, purchased with $870,000 advanced by the International Paper & Power Co.

Two attachments, however, are pending in the South Carolina district court against the three South Carolina papers, making it impossible for Lavarre to comply with Judge Deaver's order, it is stated. Under the circumstances Lavarre has refused to deliver the stock of the papers, it is said.

Another phase of the legal entanglements of Hall and Lavarre developed yesterday when an ex-parte petition was brought by the Columbia State Publishing Company, agreed to assume notes amounting to $47,500 of the former owners of the papers as debtors to the Columbia State Publishing Company. It was also agreed that stock in the papers would be deposited to cover payment of the notes, it is stated.

Meanwhile attorneys for Lavarre are understood to be preparing for an appeal in the main case, which was decided by Judge Deaver here on September 20. Five commissioners were appointed by Judge Deaver to determine whether the papers could be operated at a profit.

M'DONALD ATTENDS SUNDAY SERVICES ABOARD VESSEL

S. S. Duchess of York, October 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, whose energies in recent weeks have been largely devoted to "narrowing the Atlantic," is seeing that ocean at one of its narrowest points. Although he has been outward bound for two days and has covered nearly 1,000 miles of the voyage to Great Britain, he could still see American shores up to noon today when the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Straits of Belle Isle were left behind.

Nosing her way toward the arctic on the last North Atlantic passage of the year, this vessel will reach Liverpool in four more days. The weather today was fine, cold and sunny.

The premier had a busy Sunday morning, exercising in the gymnasium and attending church services while his daughter, Ishbel, rested in her cabin. Later Mr. MacDonald, like any other passenger, took part in the lifeboat drill when the full complement mustered on the cold upper deck.

Jimmy Walker Denies to Women He's a 'Playboy'

New York, October 27.—(United News.)—James J. Walker, candidate to succeed himself as mayor of New York, denied before two audiences of women last night that he is a "playboy" and a "tango mayor."

"I have been called 'Jimmy the Jester,' the 'night club mayor' and the 'tango mayor,'" he said.

Since January 1, 1928, when he took office, the mayor said he has been to night clubs only three times, and those three times he went with Mrs. Walker on their wedding anniversary.

"As for being a 'tango mayor,'" Walker said, "I tried the tango once several years ago and sprained my ankle."

And speaking of critics who laugh at his way of attiring himself, Walker said:

"There aren't enough laughs in life to suit me. There are too many tears. I think the people of this great city would rather have my chief magistrate smiling than frowning."

PRINCE HUMBERT RECEIVES HOMAGE ON ITALIAN RETURN

Pisa, Italy, October 27.—(AP)—Crown Prince Humbert, returning from his betrothal ceremonies at Brussels, was greeted at the station here today by his parents and his sisters, Princesses Giovanna and Maria. The royal family proceeded a little later to their summer home at San Rossore.

BAR AGAINST NEGROES IN LONDON HOTELS

Parliament Will Hear From Laborite on Subject Soon.

London, October 27.—(AP)—The question of the color bar against negroes in England will be raised in parliament by James Marley, labor member of parliament at the earliest opportunity, he announced today. Protests by two widely known American negroes against alleged discrimination because of their race has raised the question in an acute form in England for the first time.

Marley has assured Robert S. Abbott, of Chicago, of his intention of pushing the matter in parliament. Abbott, who was a member of Governor Frank O. Lowden's race relations commission in 1919 and president of Hampton (Institute) Alumni Association, had complained of discrimination against him on the British liner Aquitania.

Paul Robeson, American negro singer, recently said he and his wife were refused admittance to a prominent London grill room although they were to be entertained there by white friends. Marley wrote of this instance to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and received a letter in answer saying: "It is not in accordance with our British hotel practice but I cannot think of any way in which the government can intervene."

Marley said the Society of Friends (Quakers) had decided to call a con-

FEDERAL LOANS IN WHEAT BELT INTEREST HOUSES

Chicago, October 27.—(AP)—The wheat farmer who borrows some of the $100,000,000 available through the federal farm board will be required to pay less than the usual rate of interest, organizers of the new National Grain Corporation said today.

Although the exact rate has not yet been determined, it was stated by members of the executive committee who remained here to complete details of the giant marketing corporation, that 4 per cent was favored by most of the members, but the rate might be as high as 5 per cent.

"In any case," said William H. Settle, of Indianapolis, member of the executive committee, "it will be a lower rate of interest than the farmer is paying at present."

Principal business yet to be accomplished in the formation of the organization to be known as the Farmers' National Grain Corporation was selection of a general manager. Articles of incorporation and by-laws were adopted yesterday, and officers were elected. S. J. Cottingham, Stanhope, Iowa, was named president.

Escorted by a detail of the soldiers it was taken to the cemetery today, followed by a few automobiles, in which rode Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, Colonel and Mrs. Royden Beebe, of Fort Ethan Allen, and friends of the Goodhue family. At the cemetery, about 100 old friends of Mrs. Goodhue were present. The soldiers acted as bearers.

The committal service was read by Rev. I. C. Smart, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge left immediately after for Northampton.

The body of Mrs. Goodhue, who died at Northampton, Mass., Thursday, was brought here last night and remained in an undertaking establishment with a guard of honor from Fort Ethan Allen.

Paul Robeson, American negro singer, recently said he and his wife were refused admittance to a prominent London grill room although they were to be entertained there by white friends. Marley wrote of this instance to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and received a letter in answer saying: "It is not in accordance with our British hotel practice but I cannot think of any way in which the government can intervene."

Imperial Bedding Company Reduces Cost of Renovating

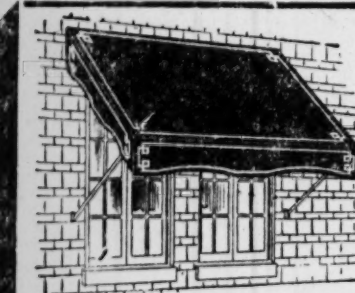

Due to a new improved attachment on its mattress felting machine, the Imperial Bedding Company has been enabled to felt nearly twice as many mattresses in a day as it could 50 days ago, and is sharing the benefits of this time-saver with their customers. The Imperial Bedding Company has heretofore had a capacity of renovating 150 mattresses a day. Now it can remake nearly twice that many, and yet give the customer the same good work.

The new attachment is a device that when attached to the felting machine, speeds up the process and though it does the work faster, it does not change the character of work. The Imperial Bedding Company thoroughly sterilizes every mattress it renovates by putting it in an electric oven and running the heat up to where it is impossible for any germ or parasite to live, and then regains and blows out all the dust, making the filling of the mattress clean and soft again. When it is run through the big felting machine and made into felt hats, the felting is made soft and downy. When the new covering is put on it is new and clean inside and out.

If it is necessary to have a mattress returned in a few hours' time, the Imperial Bedding Company has an organization of expert workmen, the best of the latest and fastest equipment, that in three or four hours after sterilizing a mattress can put it on a fast delivery truck and deliver it anywhere in the Atlanta territory. Mr. Moore says that any one having as much as 50 pounds of ginned cotton can bring it to the plant and have a new mattress made out of it. The cost is the same as renovating an old one. The interesting feature is that anyone living in the country can

NO ATLANTIC HOP FOR RUSSIAN FLIERS

Chicago, October 27.—(AP)—The four Russian fliers circling the globe in their dual motorized plane Land of Soviets indicated tonight they may skip the plane from New York to Moscow, instead of attempting a trans-Atlantic flight. L. G. Gershevich, of the aviation department of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, who has acted as spokesman for the fliers since they left Seattle, said there was considerable doubt as to the feasibility of the trans-Atlantic attempt. "It is as yet undecided whether the men will attempt the trans-Atlantic flight," Gershevich said. "The plane's two motors seem to be functioning perfectly and we have little doubt but that it could successfully negotiate the flight. However, there is some doubt in the minds of the Soviet fliers as to the feasibility of risking the attempt. They would regret very much to climax with disaster a venture that has thus far been so successful." The fliers completed preparation tonight for a take-off early tomorrow for Dearborn, Mich., where they will be entertained by Henry and Edsel Ford.

MUSSOLINI PROMISES TO WIELD BIG STICK

II Duce Delivers Militant Address to Black Shirts on Anniversary.

BY FRANCISCO REA.
United News Staff Correspondent.

Rome, October 27.—The use of the club against anti-fascists who might attempt to interfere with the internal harmony of Italy was promised by Premier Mussolini in a militant address today opening the celebration commemorating the seventh anniversary of the fascist march on Rome.

While the anniversary falls tomorrow, ceremonies started today to permit workmen to take part. Coinciding with the celebration in Rome, ceremonies, consisting of orations and processions, were held in the other principal cities of Italy.

The early hours of the celebration here were marked by heavy rain. Later glorious sunshine suffused the city, enabling the program of festivities to be carried out according to schedule.

Mussolini, astride a charger reviewed sections of all the armed forces of Rome marching along the so-called archaeological axis. Before 11 Duce were eight battalions of fascist militiamen, totaling 40,000 men.

After the review an enormous crowd of militiamen gathered in the huge square in front of the Venice palace, the premier's official residence, to hear the address which Mussolini made from the main balcony, wearing the uniform of an honorary corporal of the blackshirt militia.

"I wanted today to talk to you closely in order to reach your hearts more directly. This imposing assemblage of yours reminds me of your first gathering in the coliseum. There is some cause to be proud of the spirit which was there. This anniversary celebration shows that seven years have not elapsed in vain. It can truly be said that the fascist regime today is perfect in its institutions and men."

"This superb rallying of yours shows that it would be not only useless, but above all dangerous, to attempt to disturb the magnificent harmony existing from his majesty the king and the crown prince to the whole Italian people."

The reference to Crown Prince Humbert, who has just returned from Italy from Brussels, where his betrothal to Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, was announced, was the signal for an enthusiastic ovation. In the minds of the militiamen and the crowd of civilians were thoughts of Humbert's escape from assassination in Belgium.

Stronger Than Ever.

"Long live our prince! Hurrah, Umberto!" they shouted. When the ovation subsided, Mussolini continued: "These seven years have not passed in vain because they have enabled us to perfect our compactness. Thus, the idle talk of cowards, those whom we magnanimously spared, falls to naught. While other revolutions collapsed after seven years, our revolution has been strengthened."

"After seven years we are stronger, sterner and more implacable than before. Today we are inaugurating 10,000 public works throughout Italy at a cost of 4,000,000,000 lire. Through such an imposing array of public utilities the fascist regime looks after the welfare and the power of the nation."

A roar swept through the crowd when Mussolini referred to the "manganello," the club which fascists used lavishly against anti-fascists in the early stage of the revolution.

"I remember," began II Duce, "very well the blunt instrument." "The crowd, grasping his meaning, interrupted with the shout: "Manganello! You mean manganello!"

Senator Bingham To Face Further Quizzing Today On Framing of Tariff

TARIFF TO EXTEND TO REGULAR TERM

BY D. HAROLD WILDER.

Washington, October 27.—(AP)—Although all senate leaders seem disposed to hasten action on the tariff, it is becoming increasingly evident that the Hawley-Smoot measure will be before congress well into the regular session starting in December.

But five weeks remain in the special session to settle scores of major controversies that lurk in the 14 rate schedules and the free list that the senate has not yet reached, almost 10 months after the house ways and means committee began hearing the hundreds of witnesses that went before it to urge higher duties for agriculture and industry.

Thus far the senate has finished work on only about half of the first rate schedule. Hopes of party leaders of senate passage of the bill by November 30 under present procedure have so obviously been dashed on the rocks that it would not be surprising if Senator Bingham's committee were to postpone the administration republican group, moved night sessions at an early date.

For a week the senate has proceeded on an eight-hour-day schedule, but matters have not been speeded up appreciably. While there is opposition among the democratic-western republican coalition to night sessions, it is a fact that few, if any, tariff bills have been passed without resort to work after dark, and if the pending measure is to be passed by November 30, this appears to be the only means of accomplishing it.

One of the strangest scenes in tariff history has stood out in the first week's consideration of industry. The senate—that of regular republicans and higher duties along with the coalition opposition. Even Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, and Senator Jones, of Washington, an independent republican, have evidenced a disposition to accept lower duties in many instances.

Whether this apparent transformation is due to a realization that rates proposed by the house are too high for the industry, or to a desire to resign in the face of stronger opposition, is not clear.

Hoover Opposed. At any rate, of the approximately 40 amendments acted upon, 10 of them have provided for decreases in duties to elimination of increases proposed by the house. President Hoover, who proposed a limited tariff revision committee at the last republican convention, will do some of the questioning.

Other officers of the American Tariff League and J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff League, will be examined after the committee has finished its hearings for the time being to the tariff lobby. Moreover, it is the intention of the committee leaders, including Chairman Caraway, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, to submit reports to the senate on its findings as particular phases are concluded.

This will afford opportunity to use the committee hearings in the fight against the tariff bill. The former has been the industry's chief weapon in the placing of manganese, a product used in the manufacture of steel, upon the free list. Senator C. Buck, vice president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, he called when this subject is reached.

JEWELRY TRADE ANNOUNCES RULES FOR COMPETITION

Washington, October 27.—(AP)—Approval of 17 rules of business practice for the national jewelry industry was announced today by the federal trade commission.

The rules imposed by the commission as applying to unfair methods of competition, were adopted at a conference of the jewelry industry held in Chicago last June. The remaining 24 were accepted as expressions of the industry's desire to apply to unfair methods of competition included the branding and sale of products of the industry, proper labeling of imitations, misrepresentation, price discrimination, lessening competition by selling goods below cost and commercial bribery.

General Attack on Industrial Rate Schedules of Tariff May Result From Silence of Senator.

Washington, October 27.—(AP)—Further discussion in the senate of the "loan" of a salaryed representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association to assist Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, in his share of framing the tariff bill were forecast today as the senate lobby committee prepared to resume its hearings Tuesday.

Members of the investigating committee who severely condemned Senator Bingham for this transaction in a report to the senate yesterday, appearing surprised at the silence of the Connecticut senator under fire.

There are indications that the use of the manufacturers' representative association to assist Senator Bingham in framing the tariff bill will be used as a vehicle for a general attack on the industrial rate schedules of the measure which is now before the senate.

Despite the well founded rumors of a renewed attack tomorrow, Senator Bingham is apparently determined to stand on his previous explanation to the lobby committee. No defense was offered yesterday by himself nor by his colleagues to the attack by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, the chairman of the lobby committee.

"Mistake." The Connecticut senator told the lobby committee that "possibly" he had made a "mistake" in using the paid representative of the manufacturers' association and "technically" placing him on the senate pay roll at the time he took him into the secret sessions of the finance committee. However, he said he put the matter up to the senate yesterday.

Upon resuming hearings Tuesday, the senate committee will recall Joseph T. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and representative of the American Tariff League. No reason has been assigned for the recall of Grundy but it is understood the committee wants to question him further about the content and delivery of the platform specified general tariff revision. It is likely that Senator Bingham, republican, Idaho, a member of the committee, who was absent on Thursday when Grundy was questioned and who was the chairman of the platform committee at the last republican convention, will do some of the questioning.

Other officers of the American Tariff League and J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff League, will be examined after the committee has finished its hearings for the time being to the tariff lobby. Moreover, it is the intention of the committee leaders, including Chairman Caraway, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, to submit reports to the senate on its findings as particular phases are concluded.

This will afford opportunity to use the committee hearings in the fight against the tariff bill. The former has been the industry's chief weapon in the placing of manganese, a product used in the manufacture of steel, upon the free list. Senator C. Buck, vice president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, he called when this subject is reached.

12 LAWYERS TO DEFEND JUDGE WHO SLEW YOUTH

Texas Who Shot Son-in-Law As He Revealed Secret Marriage, Tried Today.

Weatherford, Texas, October 27.—(AP)—Twelve lawyers are to defend R. H. Hamilton, himself an attorney and a former member of the Texas supreme court commission of appeals, when his trial begins tomorrow for slaying his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., last May 4. A special venire of 150 has been called.

Four firms have been retained by Hamilton. His partner, H. G. Hendricks, and F. O. McKenzie, a former district judge, also will represent him. As the time for the trial nears, indications were strong that Hamilton would plead self-defense rather than base his case on a statement that "I had to protect my family."

Hamilton made the statement shortly after Walton, 21, was shot to death in Hamilton's Amarillo office. The youth had gone to the office to tell Hamilton of his marriage to Theresa Hamilton while both were attending the University of Texas.

Theresa, the young daughter who married young Walton despite her father's objections, is expected to be a defense witness. More than 100 witnesses will testify, among them Mrs. Grace Walton, mother of the slain youth. Mrs. Walton was prosecuted after her son's death. It was she who sent Tom to Hamilton's office to tell of the secret marriage.

The case is being tried here on a venire change from Potter county.

ENVELOPE FIRM READY TO GIVE QUICK SERVICE

The newspaper business and the envelope making industry seem to have one point in common, and that is speed. The reporter hustling to get the facts so that he may write his story before the deadline for the next edition has nothing on the envelope maker who must make delivery on schedule time.

"It would be a great deal easier," said S. Guthman, head of the Atlanta Envelope Company, "to just take envelopes off a shelf and deliver them easier and quicker, but by no means satisfactory from the customer's point of view. We're not to make up envelopes in advance by the thousands or millions—and hold them—they would not go to the customer with freshly gummed flaps, that would stick."

"The reporter has to dig up fresh facts; we have to furnish fresh envelopes, made up specially for each order. That we manage to do this without sacrificing speed, is due to a skilled force of men and women, and the very latest in envelope making machinery."

"As an instance of speed, only a week or so ago we received an order from one of the largest users of envelopes in this city, calling for 50,000 each of two different sizes of envelopes, to be made of special stock. The order was placed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and 20,000 of each were delivered by 5 o'clock on the same day. The balance were in the customer's hands by noon the following day."

The Atlanta Envelope Company was founded in 1893. From a purely local business at first, Mr. Guthman's organization has been built to a point where it now supplies envelopes to businesses in practically every state of the Union. Its plant on Stewart avenue is said to be the most completely equipped envelope plant in the south, with adequate machinery for the making of every type of commercial envelope.

Waste Material Firm Here One of Largest in South

Stein and Company, of 329-339 Decatur street, occupies a large three-story brick building, covering an acre of floor space, and into this structure, one might imagine it was a bank, but it is the general office of the company.

Upon being shown the yard, this representative of this page was amazed by the number of trucks which were in line waiting to be unloaded at the door. Some of these trucks are sent in by dealers as far as a hundred and fifty miles from Atlanta. These trucks were all heavily loaded with such materials as copper, lead, aluminum, etc., and as they were unloaded, the material was immediately assorted and carried over to the scale and weighed. As every bit of material entering the warehouse is weighed, irrespective of the amount, Stein and Company recently installed one of the most modern scales made, the Howe Weighograph. The material is carried from the scales and placed in bins. To give the public some idea of the different kinds of materials handled, the names over a number of bins are: Aluminum, light copper, light brass, gaskets, copper wire, new copper clippings, and zinc. From this point the material is carried to a large steel electric press where it is made into bales weighing as much as 2,000 pounds. From the bales it is carried over the automatic scales, weighed, tagged, and carried to the second floor where it is placed in other other material of the same classification. From here it is loaded into cars and shipped to all parts of the United States and also to Europe.

The ordinary brass is classified into six different groups as not all brasses are the same kind of brass. For instance, there is a yellow brass, a red brass, a bronze. The red brass alone is classified into five different kinds. The white metal department contains a higher grade of scrap metal such as scrap block tin, which originates mostly from dismantled soda fountains, old watches and silver. Some large concerns that specialize in white metal have men on the road looking for antiques that are made of this material, and every few days there is some one from the large eastern city asking permission to look around and see what they may find. This firm has its own foundry for melting white metal and two of the larger pots hold about 5,000 pounds of metal at one time. Most of this is made into electro type metal and is sold to printing plants and newspapers throughout the country. This foundry department has just been enlarged and is a very busy place when workmen are pouring the liquid white heated metal.

There was a very large pile of old batteries about as high as a one-story building, and one of the officials estimated that there was as many as 10,000 in the pile. Three men were busy breaking them up to get the battery lead, an item of which this concern ships a full car every two weeks. The iron yard covers several acres extending from Decatur street back to the Georgia railroad, and contains many hundreds of tons of every kind of scrap iron. It also has on it great quantities of structural steel and iron pipe. The structural steel department is a very important one with the Stein company, as is also the pipe department. Many buy this structural steel and piping to go into all kinds of new buildings and repairs.

The officials of the company are: J. J. Stein, president and manager of sales; A. L. Stein, vice president and manager; N. Stein, manager of the warehouse; J. Stacey, superintendent of the iron and structural steel department, and A. Rothchild, foreman of the sanitary wiping cloth department.

VAPEX

Discovered in England . . . imported from England

... NOW ON TWO CONTINENTS, VAPEX IS THE ACCEPTED RELIEF FOR COLDS

England discovered this modern way to fight a cold. During the war, with a terrible epidemic of influenza raging, chemists in a government laboratory completely escaped infection. Tests proved that the chemicals with which they worked gave off a healing vapor which killed the germs of common colds. . . . These same chemicals, greatly concentrated, are in Vapex today. . . . The Vapex formula is a jealously guarded secret. All the Vapex essence used in America is imported from England. There, as well as here, Vapex is widely used as a swift, sure relief for colds. A drop on your handkerchief in the morning gives you all-day-long comfort. The high concentration of Vapex makes the vapor last. Use it at night, too, to let you sleep. Put a drop at each end of your pillow. The vapor is delightfully refreshing. . . . Always insist on V-A-P-E-X in the trim, white box with the green triangle. Never accept a cheaper substitute. A bottle of Vapex contains fifty applications and costs only $1.50, one application of Vapex only costs 2c. Surely that is not too much to pay for all-day-long relief. . . . E. ## BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

SAMMY JAY DOES HIS PART.

Who for his neighbors does his part. Doth prove that he is true at heart.

—Old Mother Nature.

The barking of Flip over in the Green Forest when he saved Mr. and Mrs. Grouse from a hunter with a terrible gun, was heard by many ears. One of those who heard was Sammy Jay. Sammy is one of the smartest of all the little people in the Green Forest. Yes, sir, Sammy is one of the smartest of all the little people in the Green Forest. He is among the feathered folk what Reddy Fox is among the little people who wear fur—quick witted.

Sammy was over in the Old Orchard as Flip began to bark. He cocked his head first to one side, then to the other side. His eyes began to snap. "That dog," said Sammy to himself, "is very much excited about something. When a dog is excited about something it is usually worth looking into. I think I'll go over there. Yes, sir, I think I'll go over there. Perhaps something is going on there that I ought to know about. I'll fly over and have a look."

So Sammy Jay flew over to the Green Forest and he was just in time to see all that happened. He saw the hunter with the terrible gun. He saw the hunter's dog pointing into a certain tangle. He saw Flip rush up barking furiously. And he saw Mrs. Grouse whirl out on the farther side before the hunter was near enough to shoot. But though Sammy saw all these things, he was himself unseen, for he was silent. Sammy has a way of managing to keep out of sight. He is very clever at it, despite his bright blue coat.

The hunter and his dog turned away and went off through the Green Forest. Flip followed a little way, but soon turned back. Sammy Jay, however, kept on, keeping the hunter and his dog always in sight. Sammy knew what terrible gun meant. He knew that if it should be pointed at him he might lose his life. So he kept his tongue still, but he used his eyes. Presently he saw that the hunter was going straight toward a certain place where Juniper the Hare was in the habit of spending much time. If that hunter should see Juniper and get a shot at him the Green Forest would see no more of Juniper. Now Sammy forgot all about himself. He opened his mouth and began to shriek.

"Thief! Thief! Thief!" shrieked Sammy Jay. And he knew that every one who heard it would know instantly that there was an enemy in the Green Forest. He knew that each one who heard it would at once be on guard. Of course, he meant the warning especially for Juniper.

Juniper the Hare had been dozing under a small hemlock tree. The instant Sammy Jay began to scream, Juniper was very wide awake, indeed. His long ears stood up straight. His big soft eyes opened very wide. He knew that whatever the danger was it must be coming from the direction of Sammy Jay's voice. So he looked and listened. Presently he heard a rustling of leaves. Then he saw the hunter's dog. Juniper didn't know that that dog had been trained to look for birds only. To Juniper a dog was a dog and the greater the distance between himself and any dog the better.

So with great bounds away went Juniper the Hare. The hunter saw him, but he was too far away to shoot. He knew that his dog had not frightened Juniper. He suspected that Sammy Jay had. Already his chance to get Mrs. Grouse had been spoiled by Flip, and now his chance to get Juniper the Hare had been spoiled by Sammy Jay. The hunter was growing angry. He muttered to himself as he tramped on through the Green Forest.

Sugar & the TEETH of Children

Sugar by itself does not affect the development and preservation of the teeth

THERE has been much prejudice against the use of sweets by children on the grounds of fear of decay of the teeth. Some kinds of candy collect around the teeth as do many other foodstuffs. The remedy is to keep the teeth clean—not to avoid the foodstuffs in question.

Sugar by itself does not affect the development and preservation of the teeth. The healthy development of the teeth depends upon the minerals and vitamins in the diet, and the sunshine which the child enjoys. In the variety of foods required by the child, a reasonable amount of sugar offers advantageous use. Sugar makes fruits, vegetables and cereals appetizing and attractive.

The craving for sweets is natural to the growing child. With the proper selection of foodstuffs, seasoned with sugar, this craving will be met. The bones and teeth will be properly formed. The muscles will be ruggedly developed and all the essential processes of nutrition will be maintained.

Added to a properly selected diet, no hygienic reason can be urged against the use of sugar by children, including candy at the end of a meal. Scientific reasons are, in fact, in favor of such use.

Guard the health of growing children through a variety of foods made palatable by sugar used as a flavor. The Sugar Institute.

INSTALLMENT LV.

AN EXCHANGE.
The airplane had once been the home park of a prosperous estate, now abandoned and in decay. The sheep had kept the grass land close cropped and so rendered it thoroughly suitable for its present purpose.

Dorling was driven through rusty iron gates over a weedy path to the end of an avenue, where Wreford and two other flying officers were waiting. "Good man!" exclaimed Wreford, enthusiastically. "Come and be introduced. There'll be a bit of strife before the show starts."

Dorling was introduced to Lockhart, the senior officer, a youngster not a day older than Wreford, and Bell, who was to accompany Wreford.

"Look here Lord Dorling," began Lockhart as soon as the introduction was effected. "This thing's going to be a frost. And I'm hanged if I see the way out of it. Of course, you may not be responsible any more than I am, but just look at that machine you're supposed to use."

Fifty yards away stood two airplanes surrounded by a cluster of R. A. F. mechanics. One had the government mark of red and blue circles—like a toy target. Dorling's eye traveled from this to the civilian machine that had been provided for his use.

"It's a Corder-Liskeard, by the look of it," he exclaimed. "A Corder-Liskeard it looks and a Corder-Liskeard it is. Just what we don't want for this job. It's too slow. If Wreford is to hang on to it, he'll be a dead weight."

On the other hand, if you take your tail he may find himself in a better bus for the job than the Corder-Liskeard. That's what madmen do."

"You see, if you were following me," put in Wreford, taking up the tale, "I could take a three or four-mile lead and if I had to push up a hill, I could increase another ten miles, without your losing me, and then slack off."

"Then why can't we swap over?" asked Dorling, irritably. As he spoke he glanced round the avenue. He was thinking of the chief—and the possible presence of a gunman. His mind had a most curious accident with the thought of a gunman and he was only dimly aware that all three officers were talking at once.

"Gradually the others gave way to their superior."

"Anyhow, the suggestion has come from you, Lord Dorling," Lockhart was saying. "Naturally sensible as a civilian, it's the obviously sensible solution. The trouble is—if I let you go up in a government bus I am on the carpet."

With difficulty Dorling wrenched his attention away from the hypothetical gunman.

Why couldn't we swap back again when we get to the island? he said indifferently.

"Splendid!" exclaimed Wreford hastily before his senior could say anything. Dorling realized that the three of them had already decided that the exchange must be made but wished to sound him on his attitude.

"It's a matter of complete indifference to me," added Dorling. "And if we happen to be breaking some government regulation, well, you can count on me to write to the war office about it. . . . The only thing is—that destroyer."

"I'd thought of that," said Wreford. "Where are we now?" asked Dorling. "About 12 miles inland from Mort-vaig."

"Then their airframe is about—over there," said Dorling, pointing, and as he agreed, he went on:

"It is my intention to clean over the airframe—as I'm more likely to be able to find my way. Wreford had better go up first with the Corder-Liskeard, get over the airframe and then strike due northwest. I'll follow five minutes later. I needn't overtake you until we are 20 or 40 miles out. And then the destroyer will be able to spot which of us is leading."

"Can you beat it?" demanded Wreford, with what he believed to be an American accent. "All aboard, Bell-boy."

He hurried off, closely followed by Bell. Over his shoulder he addressed his senior.

"I take it that's all right sire," he shouted, but did not wait for an answer.

Dorling was alone with Lockhart. "Very sporting of you, Lord Dorling," said the latter. "One feels a bit of a tyke discussing departmental affairs with a civilian but you see how I am fixed. In my judgment," he said ponderously as if he were addressing a court-martial, "Wreford would be running an unnecessary risk trying to follow a slower machine with a faster one. Therefore, I could not have ordered him to fly. That would have meant giving it up."

Dorling gave the necessary reassurances and, a moment later, Wreford left the ground in the civilian machine. Lockhart pulled out his watch.

"Give him five minutes," he remarked. "Perhaps you'd like to hear your engine turn over."

Dorling glanced again over his shoulder, then moved away from the avenue. The chief, he reckoned, had some four and a half minutes which to fulfill his threat. . . . Four minutes. In four minutes he would be dead—or, he would do all that was possible to find that island without a shot. And when he had found the island, Wreford in a few minutes would wireless its position to U. S. near-

Destroyer.

He chuckled and followed with a bag containing his flying kit. By the time he had slipped into this he judged that the five minutes must have expired.

"Time's up, isn't it?" he asked. "Rather. You'd better get a move on."

As he climbed to the cockpit he faced a murderous looking machine gun. Lockhart was speaking, so he stopped the engine.

"That's the real trouble about civilians flying government planes," remarked Lockhart. "I promise not to touch it," said Dorling and re-started the engine.

As the airplane sped over the grass Dorling laughed aloud. The chief had failed. It was as if exultant voices shouted the words in his ear as he spiraled, then headed towards the airframe where Rason and his score of assistants were busily trying to comb every hole and corner.

He was over the sea now, headed northwest. For five minutes he flew at nearly full speed before he saw the destroyer far below, some ten miles ahead of him and—within a mile or so of the destroyer, Wreford.

"That's about right!" he told himself and continued on his course. He had misjudged the distance a little, for he overtook Wreford when they were scarcely a mile ahead of the destroyer. Having passed Wreford, he slackened speed.

He was a good three miles ahead of Wreford when the chief struck. (Copyright, 1929, for The Constitution.) (Continued Tomorrow.)

THRILL-PACKED SLATE CARDED FOR THIS WEEK

Tech-Irish, Georgia-Tulane, Kentucky-Clemson Games Feature Bill.

By Herb Clark.
Ice packs, bromos and aspirins are being stocked by local drug stores.
For Georgia meets Tulane and Tech plays Notre Dame. And this on successive days, this Friday and Saturday, to be exact.

Comparable only to that session two weeks ago in which the terrible Tarheels humbled the Jackets on Friday and the Athens Red Hats went crazy to maul Yale on Saturday, the coming holiday period should provide enough thrills and thrills to complete the work of relieving fandom in these parts to a small and moaning heap in the center of a large bed—with a medical staff in worried attendance.
For Georgia meets Tulane—The Bulldog and the Wave clash at Columbus Friday afternoon in what promises to be a "natural."
The shifty running attack of the Greenies, the thrusts of Banker Armstrong and Company, will meet a sturdy line which has turned back the assaults of some of the finest. And Austin Downs and Armin Waugh and their cohorts of the Red Hat ball-toting battalion will attempt to pierce an also strong forward wall, or, failing that, to pass over them into territory guarded by a secondary which stopped Tech's "Dunkin' to Jones" combination.

"HARDER AND HARDER" will be the cry Friday afternoon. Tulane has a short neck behind Tennessee Vols in the race for conference supremacy, will be out to stay in position as the field thunders down the back stretch. And Georgia, with a 500 percent, will naturally enough desire to overtake the leaders. Coach Mehre will probably take the bait in an effort to bring his entry into within striking distance.
Columbus, the "perfect neutral," will find its capabilities as host taxed to the limit by the throngs which are expected to witness the fray. Having staged the annual Georgia-Auburn battle for several years, however, Columbus has learned well the formula and should make an ideal spot for the classic.

Fans who are already speculating on the comparative standings of Tech and Georgia will find plenty of material for their eulogistic arguments at Columbus. North Carolina trimmed the Jackets by a two-touchdown margin and Georgia landed the Tarheels a polishing, finishing one tally to the good. And Georgia was very evidently one touchdown better than the Jackets. Next Tech stopped Florida, coming off the field two scores in the van. And the Tarheels, spurred by their fair, played "Spider and Fly" with Georgia, and administered a like punishment. Leaving Tech four touchdowns better than Georgia. Just a simple little problem in addition and subtraction, but a committee of Einstein, Socrates, and Pythagoras are still puzzling over the answer. Let ordinary mortals take heed.

ON TO ATLANTA.
Having completed the replaying of the game over the telegraph by Friday night, the grid commands will make haste to reach Atlanta Saturday.

For Tech meets Notre Dame, The Riding Rambler, sponsored by Notre Dame and issued yearly by Knute Rockne, will invade the Flats, bringing an assemblage of backfield talent which is ranked as the equal of the "Four Horsemen" of yesteryear. The Jackets, whole and hearty for the first time in two weeks, will shoot for their second straight win over the Irish, a feat which is seldom accomplished. Rockne is a conscientious objector on that score. He is averse to having any club in possession of any such record. And he has material this year which puts the task squarely on the Techsters.
The shillalah is raised, and the mighty arm of the Irish is ready to strike vengefully. Elder, Mullins, Cardo, Savolakis, and the others of the backfield horde will bludgeon and cut at the Jacket line, and the Rambler's forward wall, led by Captain John Law, hopes that with which to repulse the threats of those who would away towards the Irish goal. Tech will be able to throw its strength against the Irish, however, and may—and a wavering and slight "may" at that—be able to duplicate that of Carnegie Tech.

PLENTY FOR ALL.
These two games will be but the flowers on the frosting of the conference table. Other tasty tidbits will be on display at other points around the loop.

For example, consider the possibilities at Nashville, where Alabama and Vanderbilt clash. Vandy's slashing sophomores, Leonard and Parker, with a strong assisting cast, will face the Crimson power line. The Tide will be favored to win in all probability, but Dan McGugin is expected to shoot for Alabama's hide, and may very possibly just do it.

Racer Killed At Woodbridge

Woodbridge, N. J., October 27.—(United News.)—John Roberer, automobile racer of Madison, N. J., was injured fatally today when the racing car he was driving at the Woodbridge speedway left the track, crashed through a fence and jumped 50 feet down an embankment. He died while being moved to a hospital. Roberer was in fourth place in the race when the accident occurred as he attempted to pass another car at a turn.

First Action Pictures of Tech - Tulane Game

Six prominent conference football teams were undefeated at the close of business Saturday night. These were Tulane, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, Clemson and L. S. U.

Glancing ahead at the schedules of these six formidable and, to an extent, fortunate elevens, one feels strongly like predicting at least one defeat for each of them.

Tulane plays Georgia next Friday at Columbus. New Orleans newspapers will win the conference championship and secure an invitation to the Rose Bowl for the Green Wave early this week and Georgia will attend to cancelling both Friday night and supper time.

If Vanderbilt does not get Tennessee, then Kentucky will Thanksgiving Day. Vanderbilt more than likely will drop one game out of the murderous series with Alabama, Georgia Tech and Tennessee this month.

Kentucky and Clemson will attend to each other Saturday and should Clemson beat the Wildcats Florida will have a wide open shot at Josh Cody's boys. Tulane lurks at the end of L. S. U.'s row.

For years I have made Wayward Boye to do my heavy forecasting. He is a Man Without a Mind and thinks it's smart to call his shots. However, the above is submitted more in the nature of a gay, reckless gesture. One might as well do his predicting a month in advance as a few hours.

GEORGIA SHOWED IMPROVEMENT.

Careful analysis of the Georgia-Florida game impels a reversal of a hurried observation or two that were made in the Sunday report. After all the figures and facts are in, it appears that the Bulldogs actually played a good football game and lost to a superior team.

From Coaches Mehre and Thomas I learn that Georgia really played better football than in the North Carolina engagement. "We were lucky there," they insisted modestly. "But we were well organized Saturday and played our best game."

Georgia's touchdowns this year have been scored from long range or on short drives. But in the Florida game the Bulldogs organized three marches of from 45 to 65 yards and advanced with a varied attack that showed cohesion and power.

It was the first time since the Oglethorpe game that Georgia had developed a well organized offense. That, of course, means that the Athens boys have been making progress. Florida overpowered them between the tackles, which Florida would have done to any other opponent Saturday.

CRABTREE FOXED THEM.

Georgia's inexperience was shown nowhere more forcibly than in their efforts to tackle pesky Clyde Crabtree. Clyde danced about and lured the enthusiastic Bulldogs to dive at him; then he dodged and sailed away.

The way the sagacious Stumpy Thomason handled Clyde at the Flats was a lesson. Stumpy closed in warily and feinted Clyde into dodging a certain way; then Stumpy broke him in two.

Clyde played the young Georgians, but Stump played Clyde. It takes several years of experience and a superior defensive intuition to do that.

HARD DRIVING BACKS.

Florida's backs, particularly Cawthon and Goodbread, drove through nearly every time to the secondary defense before they were checked.

That was not because the Florida line was so much stronger than Georgia's.

It was due to the great speed and determination of the backs themselves. Time and again I saw Georgia's tackles and guards lay hands on Cawthon. But he tore loose from their clutches or knocked them aside with the force of his leg drive.

GOOD-WILL TOUR.

Georgia's expedition to Jacksonville was a social success anyhow. Dr. S. V. Sanford made a remarkable speech before the Jacksonville Civitan Club that created no end of good-will toward the university.

And naturally the victory presented the Florida

BIG SIX TEAMS TIED FOR LEAD

Missouri and Oklahoma on Top With Perfect Slates.

By J. H. Anderson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Kansas City, October 27.—(AP)—Missouri was a new partner to share its lead of the Big Six football race today.

Oklahoma, opening its conference season yesterday with the Kansas Aggies, spoiled the Aggies' perfect percentage by a 14 to 13 victory and got a foothold on the top rung on which two touchdowns Tech might have had. Missouri remained perched as a result of its 7 to 7 tie with Nebraska, 1928 champions.

Kansas leaped to the fore as a possible dark horse contender by its crushing 33 to 0 victory over Iowa State, a victory which demonstrated the Jayhawks have a powerful offensive.

The largest crowd of the day saw Kansas beat the Iowa, 39,000 being in the stands; at Columbia where Missouri and Nebraska met in a game which fans conceded would determine who would rule the conference this year, the attendance was slightly more than 20,000. The crowd at the Aggie-Oklahoma game was estimated at 10,000.

The Oklahoma-Kansas Aggie clash was the usual free scoring contest staged by these schools and "Ho" McMillin's team lost because of the failure of a kick after touchdown.

Another week-end conference engagement is scheduled for next Saturday. Nebraska entertains Kansas in Lincoln; Missouri is host to the Kansas Aggies in Columbia and Iowa State goes south to tackle Oklahoma.

Tech Showed Courage In Last-Minute Drive

Jackets Met With Bad Breaks But Fought Game Battle Against Greenies.

By Ralph McGill,
Staff Correspondent.

New Orleans, La., October 27.—Georgia Tech's football team, in losing to Tulane Saturday, afforded a spectacle seldom seen in this vale of tears. Completely routed, the Jackets nevertheless reorganized and came within a few minutes of winning a football game.

Once a football team is routed it rarely comes back. That the Jackets did come back with the score 20 to 0 against them and scored two touchdowns, and needed but a few more minutes to win, is a tribute to their stamina and courage and at the same time a tribute to the coaching they have received.

Chip Robert chartered a steamer Sunday morning and took the Tech party on a trip up the Mississippi and later to lunch at La Louisiane, one of New Orleans' famous restaurants. The conversation centered chiefly about the courageous fight of the Jackets and the curious breaks that went against them. There were two touchdowns Tech might have had. Once Thomason was free in the third quarter, Referee Powell blew his whistle thinking the headlineman had called Thomason out of bounds. Thomason, hearing the whistle, stopped. The ball, of course, was dead as soon as the whistle sounded. It then developed that he was not out of bounds at all. That and the decision that Mizell had stepped out of bounds six inches before he crossed the line when he really kicked a ball at the line as he caught the leg prevented two touchdowns.

They were not offered up in a disgruntled fashion but merely became part of the post-mortem conversation on a game which saw a fine offense, rested last week with a set-up game, click in fine fashion and rout a team that was somewhat flat from lack of practice as a unit. The Tech party gave Tulane full credit.

There were two good teams on the field Saturday. Tulane was good for the first 30 minutes. Tech was good only in the last eight. Tulane's offense clicked largely because of the fine work of the line and Tech's offense failed for the same reason. On many of Tech plays there was not a single Tulane man on the ground.

Tulane should go on through the season undefeated. The Greenies, used a crippled Georgia eleven on Friday at Columbus and then met L. S. U., the only remaining foe with any degree of toughness.

A TOUGH ROAD.

WALKER FACES ACE TUESDAY

Two Battlers Meet Again for Title; Dempsey Offers Card.

New York, October 27.—(AP)—Out on the Pacific coast Mickey Walker, one time "toy bulldog" of the prize ring, defends his middleweight championship this week for the second time against Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat.

Walker's defense of his title, set for Tuesday night at Los Angeles, furnishes the Pacific coast with the nation's outstanding athletic attraction. Walker, who won the middleweight title after losing his welterweight crown to Pete Latzo, of Scranton, Pa., been keeping his eyes on the vacated light-heavyweight throne, but he has decided to risk his 160-pound crown once more against the man who all most took it away from him in Chicago last year.

Walker and Hudkins put on a savage scrap on that occasion, with the decision going to the champion, to the amazement of some part of the crowd of 25,000 who thought Hudkins had won. Hudkins may reverse the verdict this time, but the margin of victory either way seems certain to be close.

Jack Dempsey's second show at the Chicago coliseum on Friday night will be featured by a ten-rounder between Tony Canzoneri, erstwhile featherweight king, and Stanislaus Loyza, the rugged Chilean. Philadelphia offers an international match as the windup of an area card tomorrow night, Billy Jones, of Philadelphia, meeting Charley Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight.

Other bouts of the week include: Monday—At Philadelphia, Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia, vs. Eddie Reed, New York, ten rounds, and Frankie Hayes, Philadelphia, vs. Al Gracin, Spokane, Wash., eight rounds, all lightweights. At New York, St. Nicholas arena, Billy Wallace, Cleveland, vs. Patsy Ruffalo, Mount Vernon, lightweights, ten rounds.

Wednesday—At Cincinnati, Spug Meyers, Pontiac, Mich., vs. Vince Hambright, Cincinnati, welterweights, six rounds.

Friday—At Chicago, Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Meriden, Conn., vs. Eddie Kaplan, Wagon, Monrois, and Tony Herrera, Chicago, vs. Jackie Pilkington, New York, all lightweights, each ten rounds.

Saturday—At New York, Olympia A. C., Jack (Kid) Berg, England, vs. Mickey Genaro, New York, junior welterweights, ten rounds.

By Eddie Brietz,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
Compared to the frenzied doings of previous week-ends, Saturday was a quiet and uneventful football day in the south, but not entirely without its jolts.

These jolts were caused by both Florida and Tulane, the former beating Georgia and Tulane downing Georgia Tech.

Six teams remain undefeated in the conference, with Tennessee and Clemson leading the parade with three wins each, followed by Tulane, Vanderbilt and Louisiana State with two apiece and Kentucky with one.

Florida's 18-6 win over Georgia was a sort of upset. The rejuvenated Alligators left their prima donna tendencies in Gainesville and went up to Jacksonville to play a snap-up game and score a spectacular comeback.

GAUCHES LOADED.
Georgia apparently had left too much football in the Yale and North Carolina games and couldn't get started. Florida, on the other hand, hadn't left any to speak of in the Georgia Tech game and was loaded.

Tulane was favored to topple Georgia Tech, but the ease with which the Greenies turned the trick started another epidemic of headshaking in and around Atlanta.

The score was 20-14, but the game was not nearly so close as the figures would indicate. Strapped for three quarters, Tech didn't register a touchdown until the last period, when seven Tulane substitutes went in.

With Hackman and McEver, its twin terrors, leading the attack, Tennessee moved a step nearer the championship by smothering Washington and Lee under a 33-0 score. After the regulars had piled up 20 points in the first half the reserves went in and accumulated 19 more.

ONE BIG PERIOD.
One big period was enough for North Carolina to demonstrate its superiority over Virginia Poly. Using a dizzy overhead game, the Tarheels rushed over 20 points in the second quarter, finally winning 38 to 13.

Holm and Campbell proved a de-

Wayward Boye, the Man Without a Mind, was visited last night by a band of men on horseback wearing sheets of black with red hoods. The leader of the band called Wayward to the door. Wayward came and stood there, his nightshirt flapping disconcertingly in the night wind.

The red-hooded horseman—it was none other than Congressman Theodore Frisbie—called out in a loud, though ungrammatical, voice:

"Listen, you, if you pick Georgia to beat Tulane next Friday, I'll be us and you all over the county. Tulane are the winner; don't forget that."

Out of five shots at Georgia's football fortunes, Wayward Boye has missed four. Oglethorpe and Florida picked off his winning guesses, while the Athens outfit shot his Yale and North Carolina forecasts. None can blame the football players next door from looking on the cross-eyed bird as a jinx.

Wayward fared well elsewhere in the conference, calling the Tulane-Tech game right when New Orleans devotees were calling Tech the favorite. Yale and Dartmouth crowded him up, too.

However, up the close of business Wayward had run his season's record to 212 won, 41 lost, for a percentage of .818, which is a record for this date in any season.

Boys' High and Smithies in Feature Games of Prep Card

T. H. S. TO PLAY AT SAVANNAH ON SATURDAY

Other Good Games on Local Prep Football Card This Week.

By Roy White.

Boys' High and Knoxville High will meet at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at Spiller Field in the feature of the week's prep football card on local soil. Athens High will play Decatur Friday afternoon at Decatur in a "home coming day" game for the DeKalb county youngsters.

Other prep games for the week include Carrollton Aggies and G. M. A. Friday afternoon at College Park; Fulton High at Marietta Friday; Commercial High at Windsor Friday; and Tech High and Savannah High at Savannah Saturday afternoon.

ANXIOUS FOR GAME. Russell High, with four victories and one defeat, will meet Douglasville Aggies Tuesday afternoon at East Point, and Coach R. L. Bowen is anxious to arrange a game for Friday afternoon or Saturday morning with some strong prep team near Atlanta.

The week's high spot in prep circles will be the Friday afternoon game between Boys' High and Knoxville High, of Knoxville, Tenn., at Spiller field. The Hurricane, with one of its best teams, has been going good lately. Coach Doyle's side met with a stubborn G. M. A. eleven two weeks ago and were held to a scoreless tie, but since that game Boys' High has strengthened considerably.

In last Friday's game against Rome High, Coach Doyle employed the two-team system. It worked perfectly and the scrubs scored three touchdowns while the varsity was held scoreless. Shortly after the 19-0 victory Doyle stated that he had no varsity team and that a flock of players would be given ample opportunity to show their ability this week. His team did not play up to form in the G. M. A. game and since that time all the candidates have been given opportunity to make good. The so-called varsity eleven is a bit worried and Doyle is expecting some hard work from the veterans this week.

Tech High, with an easy victory over University school, is in for some hard work before the Savannah game Saturday. Coach Tolbert was an interested spectator at the Savannah G. M. A. game Saturday morning and stated that his team has been loafing and stalling around since the 33-0 defeat of Erie in Erie, Pa., two weeks ago.

"Savannah is no setup and the team is much better than it appeared in the G. M. A. game Saturday. The line works well, except for a bit of better timing on its shift, and in Hart Savannah has one of the best-looking prep stars in the state Saturday and our boys are in for some real knocks this week," Tolbert said Sunday.

Boys' High has not been scored on except once, when Decatur High scored on the substitute team late in the fourth quarter of the last game. Boys' High has scored 102 points, while Tech High is leading with 145.

FULTON IS DOWN. Fulton High lost a 31-0 game Friday at Decatur and the county lads have not scored this season. In the Tech High game two weeks ago, a Fulton end caught a pass beyond the Tech High safety man but stumbled and fell just as he caught the pass.

Decatur, despite its three defeats and one victory, is looking forward to a good game next Friday in the homecoming day, with Athens High as its opponent. Athens High has a victory over Savannah High to its credit and ranks as one of the strongest prep teams in the state at present.

Russell High, after a defeat at the hands of Marietta in the first game, has progressed rapidly and won four straight. The East Point lads are looking for another game this week to complete their schedule.

Standing of the local prep teams follows:

TEAM	W	L	T	Points	Opp.
Tech High	4	0	0	145	U. S. S.
Boys' High	3	0	1	102	Decatur
Russell High	4	1	0	58	Decatur
Marietta	4	1	0	30	Decatur
U. S. S.	1	3	0	104	Decatur
Decatur	1	3	0	36	Decatur
G. M. A.	0	4	0	38	Decatur
Fulton High	0	4	0	121	Decatur

Give Your Face a Taste of the Mint Julep Shave

Let your poor, shaved-to-death face have one taste of the mint julep shave and it will never again dread the razor! A mint julep shave is easily made. Simply take a little BRISK shaving cream and add to it a little warm or cold water.

BRISK makes a mint julep shave because of the things it does on your face and on your spirits. First of all, BRISK makes plenty of lather and that's the first essential to a good shave. BRISK absorbs two to three times the amount of water that old-fashioned shaving cream does. Hence it forms two to three times the amount of lather—and a lather that stays moist on your face until you finish your shave!

Lubricates the Shave.

The rich, moist lather quickly "cuts" the beard oil and soaks the hair quickly for easy, clean cutting. Moreover, it lubricates the cutting stroke of the razor. You know how a bit of soap on a saw eases its passage through a log—well, that's how BRISK smooths the cutting stroke of the razor. The razor does not "pull" or bump along over your face, but glides sweetly over the skin, cutting down the hair closely and cleanly and almost without effort. No need to go over and over the same spot and "butcher" your face to get a close shave.

A Skin Conditioner as well as a Shave.

Whereas the average shave is hard on your face, a BRISK shave is a boon. Your face feels and looks all the better for a BRISK shave. For BRISK carries its own balm and is a skin conditioner as well as a shave. It leaves your face soft, smooth and supple—fit to go out and meet the world. Try just one BRISK shave.

BRISK is new, even unto the package. It's a flat, oval tin box made for men only. And it holds an amazing lot of shave because you have to use so little compared to other shaving creams. Get BRISK now at any good drug store or toilet goods counter—fifty cents.

BRISK has four brothers: ZEST, a refreshing after-shave lotion; TRIM, a hair dressing in clean, sticky form; SMOOTH, a powder that kills shine without showing powder; STIP, a new type "stippling" that closes cuts pronto!

THREE ELEVENS TIED IN EAST

Dartmouth, Pittsburgh and Western Maryland Lead Eastern Football.

New York, October 27.—(AP)—At the head of the football list today stood only four undefeated and untied eastern elevens, survivors at the halfway post of the gridiron derby. Dartmouth, Pittsburgh and a newcomer to the heights this season, little Western Maryland, top the column, each with a perfect record of five victories, and the most able Cornell eleven since the days of Plann and Kaas is only a stride behind with four victories and no defeats.

Records of some of the leading teams follow:

Cotton Prices Show Gain During Week of Activity

New Orleans, October 27.—(AP)—The past week has been a period of much activity in the cotton market. Not only has trading been brisk, but frequent fluctuations have been wide and rapid, although final results have not been very considerable as the closing price for December contracts on Saturday, 18.17, was only 31 points higher than the close of the preceding Saturday, a net appreciation in price a shade over $1.50 a bale.

The high points of the week were reached on Tuesday following the announcement that farm loan board was prepared to lend up to 16 cents a pound on cotton to assist in the orderly marketing of the crop. As this amount of a maximum loan was about equivalent to the full value of cotton in the interior, traders assumed that the natural effect would be to encourage producers to hold their crops for higher prices.

On this assumption there was considerable trading and some speculation as well as the market ruled fairly steady at the advance until Thursday when the market broke badly on the heavy decline in stocks and grain reaching levels 75 points under the highs of Tuesday.

On this break heavy trading developed and when shorts sought to cover they found contracts scarce and prices rallied almost as sharply as they had declined. This recovery was helped by the reports of freezing weather in parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, as well as hard frost in many other portions of the belt. Buying was held in restraint, however, by the heavy gain in total issued by the census bureau, which has caused some traders to raise their crop view.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market last week compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Close	Year
October	18.45	17.95	18.17	18.96
November	18.45	17.95	18.17	18.78
December	18.45	17.95	18.17	18.80
January	18.45	17.95	18.17	18.78
March	18.45	17.95	18.17	18.78
May	18.45	17.95	18.17	18.80

Business Moves Ahead Despite Stock Break

New York, October 27.—(AP)—Business and industry moved forward with an assurance in extraordinary contrast to the semi-panic conditions prevailing in the security markets. The same hesitancy in some lines that has prevailed during recent weeks was evident, but assurance of the fundamental stability of conditions were lent forth by a long list of leading bankers and business executives, and were limited by a statement by President Hoover.

The building industry, which has suffered considerably from high money rates and unsettled credit conditions generally stands to profit markedly by the wholesale liquidation of stocks and consequent release of credit. Building operations have fallen about 10 per cent, on the average, below the levels of 1928. F. W. Dodge Corporation stated that if the reversal of money market conditions continues, building contracts should show a genuine improvement after the first of the new year, pointing out that the oversupply of residential buildings has been considerably corrected.

Satisfactory Earnings.

The moderate decline in steel mills operations has contributed considerably to the nervousness which preceded the stampede of stock liquidation. This basic industry's foremost executives, attending the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, painted a glowing picture of satisfactory earnings and high operations. James A. Farrell, president of United States Steel Corporation, said that when the industry can run at 75 to 80 per cent of capacity at this time of year, it is in a thoroughly healthy condition. He reported a picking up of business, and the opinion prevailed that the current recession has struck bottom.

The wheat markets were thrown into confusion by a break in securities, but this was regarded as a temporary and technical situation. In his statement on business conditions, which stressed a steady and balanced distribution as on a sound and prosperous basis, President Hoover pointed out that despite the temporary drop in grain prices the country has 500,000,000 bushels less than last year, which should result in very little carry over.

While the huge losses on the stock market caused some quarters to seriously impair, the head of the largest mail order house said that he looked for no curtailment and that his organization was preparing for record holiday trade. The motor industry continued to lag, and General Motors reported a rather unsatisfactory earnings statement for the third quarter, as have other manufacturers, but work upon new models went forward with confidence in resumption of large buying after the first of the year.

Car Loadings Off.

Freight car loadings, as reported for the week ended October 22, the second successive week failed to come up to the excellent record of some seven months duration. Total loadings were substantially below the level of a year ago, and well below the previous week. Again, the reduced automotive shipments and the congestion of grain at terminals were decisive factors. Railways' earnings statements for September revealed some irregularity, but were generally favorable.

Oil Production Took Another Substantial Turn.

Oil production took another substantial turn, as restrictions were lifted in Oklahoma, sharp price cutting appeared in California, and this was regarded as the end of the oil glut. Independent operators in compliance with the conservation program. The program to control production was pushed forward again, but leaders remained confident of success and pointed to improved earnings as evidence that the industry is already on a fairly satisfactory basis.

The Cotton Market.

The cotton market was stimulated by announcement of the federal farm

BONDS STEADILY MOVING UPWARD

New York, October 27.—(AP)—The bull movement in bonds, which has sent prices up during the last three weeks with a rapidity not equalled in several years, appears to be gathering momentum, aside from a temporary setback on Thursday, when all security markets were subjected to the most terrific pressure. Listed bonds on the New York stock exchange moved steadily and evenly upward, with the result that the Associated Press averages for ten representative groups in each of the domestic corporation groups gained half a point. This was in the face of a moderate decline during the nervous Thursday session when the average of the highest interest merit were able to hold their ground.

Liberal decreases in money rates

Liberal decreases in money rates and the consequent ease in securities have bolstered sentiment toward bonds to the point where dealers anticipate an increasing investment demand. Until stocks began to soar to spectacular levels the average investor, who had been ed out, was primarily a bond buyer; and now, with the speculative bubble pricked by the events of last week, a return to the more conservative and fixed charge securities would seem virtually assured.

Back to Bonds.

In addition, banks and corporations which have been placing large sums in the call money market may be expected to go back to bonds if interest rates continue to ease. United States government bonds and treasury certificates, the rails and the foreign obligations were leaders in last week's rise, although utilities and industrial bonds were not far behind. The liberties and treasuries showed exceptional strength toward the week-end and several of the issues sold at their highest prices. As investors in search of security turned to the "governments."

Gains of 2 or more points in car-

gains of 2 or more points in car-railroad bonds, and the highest interest merit were able to hold their ground. The Thursday shakeout, severe in all sections of the list, sent scores of issues to new lows for the year, longer in the record-breaking turn-over of 6,374,415 shares. Bids were unobtainable at the bottom levels and the value of the market was down to 20 to 40 points and even more, with an extreme loss of 74 in Aluminum Company of America. The recovery from the lowest depths was prompt when banking support was thrown into the market.

At their Thursday minimums, numbers of stocks, especially the utilities, were selling 100 to 200 points below their year's highs. American Light & Traction dropped to 250 in comparison with its high of 450; American Gas & Electric fell to 130 against its maximum of 224; Electric Bond & Share touched 91 in contrast to its peak of 189; Electric Investors sold at 141 against 302 1/2. The Aluminum Company of America plunged to 300 against 530. The recovery from these low points, however, was substantial. Stocks and investment shares were weak throughout the five and a half days of trading. Cities Service was a conspicuous feature, selling down to 45 in contrast to its year's high of 68 1/2. It rallied a few points from the bottom, but sagged again to just below the lowest. The rally in the market group during the period of recovery was somewhat of the end of the week found many of these shares selling well below their offering prices.

Industrial stocks, which suffered with the rest of the list in the collapse, made good progress when the market turned. Wheelock, which had been down to 10 for 1 split, got down to 25, or the equivalent of 250 on the old shares. It closed the week at 36 and its rebound was typical of numerous stocks in its group.

The November issue of the Guaranty

trust company's new publication, "The Guaranty Trust Company," says: "It is to be expected that the industry activity will be affected to some extent by the effect of the new money market and the effect will be more pronounced than the 'the experience' of recent years. The hope that any recession resulting from the action of the stock market will not be violent or of long duration."

Last week was a lean period for the issuance of new securities, with only $5,000,000 of new offerings having been placed on the market. The amount of $5,000,000 of new offerings having been placed on the market. The amount of $5,000,000 of new offerings having been placed on the market.
